Sheriff's homicide investigators returned this morning to the Diamond Bar apartment of Cal Poly professor William Claflin Warner in hope that daylight would assist them in finding clues to his murderer.

Warner's body was discovered in the bedroom of his apartment of 1266 Diamond Bar Blvd. late Monday afternoon. The 53-year-old victim had been beaten to death with a blunt object.

Warner was assistant chairman of the urban planning unit at Cal Poly. His body was found by the chairman of the department, Harry Anthony, and an unidentified secretary. They had gone there to find out why Warner had not arrived at the university Monday and why he had not answered their telephone calls.

Sheriff's Capt. David Turner said this morning that investigators have not determined why Warner was killed, nor exactly what kind of weapon was used. He died as the result of "numerous" blows to his head, but there appeared to have been no struggle inside the apartment, Turner said.

The investigator declined to estimate how long Warner had been dead when his body was discovered. An autopsy was planned today at the coroner's office in an effort to learn, among other things, when he was killed.

Turner also declined to say how the victim was dressed or describe the condition of his clothing when the body was discovered.

Turner said that no obvious signs of forced entry were found. The victim lived alone in Apartment C of the building.

Warner was associate professor of urban planning and assistant to Dr. Anthony at Cal Poly. He began work there in 1973, after leaving the post as director of urban renewal at Bridgeport, Conn. He had been director there for almost six years.

From 1961 to 1967 Warner was director of urban renewal and planning at Mt. Vernon N.Y., and prior to that he worked in the New York City planning department.

Warner obtained his B.A. degree at George Washington University in 1949 and a Master of Science in Urban Planning degree at Columbia University in 1959.

He was unmarried.

Man hurls 2 girls to death from 14th floor

NEW YORK (AP) — "I yelled for someone to call police — that kids were being thrown out of a window," said Jesse Blake.

He was one of the horrified tenants of a Spanish Harlem housing project who saw Celina Martinez, 7, and her half-sister, Felicia Ocasio, 5, hurled to their deaths from a 14th floor apartment Monday.

Police said the girls were thrown from the window by their mother's common-law husband. Only minutes later, he fatally stabbed her 6-year-old son, Mark Martinez, and then leaped to his own death.

The tragedy was triggered by a quarrel between Julio Delgado, 30, and the children's mother, Felicia Sanchez, 28, police said. She was treated for hysteria but was otherwise unharmed.

Police said the mother was not able to give a coherent story of the events leading to the deaths. None of the children were fathered by Delgado, they said.

"I heard a thump and ... I saw Felicia on the ground," Blake said. "I looked up and saw Celina coming out the window. I froze."

Another witness, Sophronia Walker, who saw Delgado at the window, said, "He puts one leg out and then he makes a motion for people to move away. They scattered. Then, he jumped."

Furor over unclaimed accounts

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Financial institutions are reacting in opposite ways to a state law requiring that dormant or unclaimed accounts be turned over to the state.

The American Express Co. Monday presented state officials with three checks totaling $540,986.52. It was the first-ever payment to California for unclaimed travelers checks.

Shortly later, two major California banks reported filing suits against state Controller Ken Cory. It challenges the legality of a claim by Cory for $17.3 million in unclaimed bank accounts.

Cory and state Treasurer Jesse Unruh, both Democrats, accepted the American Express checks at a news conference.

This was about the same time the Bank of America and Security Pacific National Bank were filing their action in Sacramento Superior Court.

Cory contends that the American Express payment is the first step in what he said would be $100 million in extra unclaimed funds the state wants from numerous credit and financial institutions.

The suit, Cory charged, is a maneuver to avoid payment and "continue profiteering on millions of dollars."

COMMUNITY CRIME FIGHTERS

'Half' of Pomona's population sought by volunteer group

Some 102 citizens, bolstered by the Progress Bulletin's "Stand Up and Be Counted" editorial pinpointing crime as the city's No. 1 problem are ready to lead a full-fledged war against the law breaker.

All they need is an army.

They are members of the Pomona Base of the California Community Alert Patrol (C-CAP), a state branch of a national organization formed to "preserve and protect all people."

The stated organization has been in existence since 1967, chartered under the 1965 Federal Law Enforcement Assistance Act. Pomona Base was established last March 9.

"That editorial in the Progress Bulletin, and the letters the readers have written stating their willingness to stand up and be counted, convinced us the time was right," said 29-year-old Larry States, commander of Pomona Base.

"We've got 102 members. We want to sign up half the population of Pomona. We work on a volunteer basis. We are not armed. We have radio equipment and we work as eyes and ears for law enforcement. We also assist citizens in need."

States, backed by his captain, Pomona businessman Charles Kimmel, and his lieutenant, John Brizendine, said the base is ready to go immediately.

"We need a building, centrally located, in which to set up a communications control center, and we need an army of volunteers," said States.

Volunteers will be used to form a block-to-block community watch and will report to enforcement agencies any infractions or suspicious circumstances they feel the law should follow up on.

More than that, States explained, they will listen to concerns of individual citizens, and where a wrong exists they will help right it, or where an unfairness is evident, they will try to bring fairness.

"Actually, one of our goals is to bring control of the government back into the hands of the people," States explained.

"We have established a good rapport with the Pomona Police Department, and they respond quickly when they receive a call from us."

The C-CAP volunteers have been operating "in some degree since last March. "Now we want to get a lot more people involved so we can become effective enough to really improve conditions in Pomona," said States.

"We need response from citizens who are concerned and are willing to devote time to help establish our block-to-block program. "We feel this is one way to assist the community."

States became involved, he said, because he came to fear for the safety of a child going to school. Kimmel is determined that "they" (the law breakers) are not going to drive him out of business "as happened to so many others ... just look at the mall." Brizendine wants

Pomona to be a safe place for his two daughters.

"If we could get half the people of Pomona with us," said States, "there's nothing the citizens could not get if they needed it. Government would really be back in the hands of the people."

"We believe crime would drop. Everybody would know what to do, what to look for, what action to take, and what not to take. We need to train people to be aware and not ignore certain kinds of things."

"And if we get citizens trained in this way, perhaps the would-be lawbreakers will have second thoughts about committing a crime, and perhaps about even coming to Pomona. But we've got to get people involved if we're going to do it."

Citizens who wish to volunteer to serve as block watchers with C-CAP may call the hot line, 622-3233 or two other numbers — 984-2137 or 629-9567 — to enlist.

All information they give will be kept confidential.

Anyone who could assist with locating a building to serve as a C-CAP communications control center is asked to call the hot line number.

The hot line is answered 24 hours a day, seven days a week. A call from a citizen or a law enforcement agency will bring C-CAP members immediately. In an emergency situation, other C-CAP bases are contacted (there is a base in Ontario and one of the largest ones in the state is in Compton) and several hundred units could respond.

Areas of assistance to date have included searching for lost children, assisting stranded motorists, establishing radio equipped mobile patrols in high crime areas, traffic control when requested and training members in first aid.

Carey: both NYC, state will default if no U.S. aid by early November

WASHINGTON (AP) — New York Gov. Hugh L. Carey told Congress today that unless a bill to aid deficit-ridden New York City is on President Ford's desk by early November, both the city and state will go into default.

Carey told a House economic stabilization subcommittee that the Ford administration's reluctance to help New York indicates the White House "is content to allow the fate of 17 million Americans and the economy of our nation to twist slowly in the wind ..."

Carey testified one day after the New York state fiscal watchdog committee for New York City approved an austerity plan that will cut the city's budget by $724 million over the next three years and slash thousands more municipal workers from the payroll.

The governor told the subcommittee today that "the entire world is watching to see if the Congress of the United States will prove, once again, that our government can take care of its people."

Carey said that if federal help is not forthcoming, the city will default in early December "and then the state of New York, its vital agencies, many of its school districts and many of its local units of government will be forced into default soon afterwards."

The state has run out of resources to help the city, he said. Unless Congress can pass a bill and have it on the President's desk by early November, "Any help you might consider will be too late to be of consequence," he added.

Carey said he senses a growing sentiment in Washington that the easy way out would be to permit default. He called that sentiment more than tragic and added: "It is the ultimate immorality that a federal government could practice on its people during these times of financial crisis."

Carey, head of the Emergency Financial Control Board, startled other board members Monday night when he told a meeting of the City Club that 55,000 jobs would be eliminated by 1978.

However, Kenneth Axelson, deputy mayor for finance, explained, "My understanding of the governor's remarks is that he was talking about the equivalent number

Canadian postal workers strike

OTTAWA, Canada (AP) — Inside postal workers went on strike today in Ottawa, Toronto, Montreal and other major cities and Canada was threatened with a nationwide postal stoppage.

Postmaster General Bryce Mackesey said government negotiators would not return to the bargaining table until the Canadian Union of Postal Workers said whether it would accept the government's "final" wage offer of a 37 per cent increase over 30 months.

In Ontario, inside postal workers went out shortly after midnight in Ottawa and Owen Sound and were joined later by the workers in Toronto, through which half of the country's mail passes, plus those in Hamilton, London and Windsor. Montreal workers were working early in the morning but later walked out.

of jobs represented by the $724 million."

Except to say that they would "number in the thousands," Axelson refused to put a figure on this newest round of firings. However, he said, "We hope to wipe out a good portion of the deficit through attrition and the elimination of nonpersonnel items."

The austerity plan, which basically followed the budget-cutting proposals of Mayor Abraham D. Beame, includes a three-year freeze on wages and hiring, large-scale service cuts and an end to new municipal construction.

The Control Board said it was cutting $390 million from the separate capital budget, used to finance construction projects, by 1978.

This year's savings on the $12 billion 1975-76 expense budget were targeted at $200 million.

The budget plan was mandated by the state to rid the city of its deficit and to restore investor confidence in the city's now-shaky credit rating. The city came within hours of default last Friday.

At the dinner, the governor lashed out at President Ford's continued opposition to federal aid for New York, which he claimed "all the nation will regard as cruel and short-sighted — a bankruptcy in its own right, the bankruptcy of presidential leadership."

In Washington, Beame pushed his plea for federal help by telling Congress that since Jan. 1 he has cut the city's work force by 31,000 jobs to 263,311.

Police surround house where captive held

MONASTEREVIN, Ireland (AP) — Armed police and troops stormed a house today in this sleepy town 40 miles west of Dublin where kidnapped Dutch industrialist Tiede Herrema is being held, police said.

A squad of troopers smashed down the front door of the two-story house and police officers led by Supt. John Fleming of Dublin's special branch force charged in to occupy the ground floor, a spokesman said.

The kidnappers fired five shots at the assault group, but no one was hit, police reported. The assault team did not shoot back, apparently for fear of hitting Herrema.

The kidnappers, believed to be Irish Republican Army guerrillas Eddie Gallagher, 26, and Marion Coyle, 19, retreated to an upstairs bedroom holding a gun at the 53-year-old Herrema's head.

Mary Dwyer, who lives opposite the besieged house in the St. Evans housing development, reported she heard a man, believed to be Herrema, screaming. "Let me out, let me out."

Earlier reports from the scene said that Herrema was apparently hysterical as his kidnappers began shooting. Police could not confirm that, but a spokesman said the kidnappers "are shouting a lot."

"We're negotiating with the kidnappers for Dr. Herrema's release," a police spokesman said. "Police officers are at the foot of the stairs trying to persuade the man and the woman with Herrema to give up."

Justice Minister Patrick Cooney raced from Dublin to Monasterevin to discuss the situation with senior police officers at the scene.

Weather

Early morning fog and fair afternoons with mild temperatures. No smog today or Wednesday. High today 80, low tonight 46, high Wednesday 73. The high Monday was 74 and the overnight low was 50. Wednesday's sunrise 7:02, sunset 6:09.

Pair indicted in Ford assassination plot

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The theft of a television set from a motel room was the undoing of carefully laid plans two men had for assassinating President Ford, federal officials say.

The two were indicted Monday by a federal grand jury for conspiring to assassinate Ford in Sacramento on Sept. 5 — the same day Manson follower Lynette Fromme allegedly pointed a gun at Ford as he walked through a Sacramento park.

A Justice Department spokesman said the alleged plot had no known connection with Miss Fromme's alleged attempt on Ford's life.

The indictment Monday said the assassination attempt was to include the bombing of a sewer as a diversion while shots were fired at the President.

The indictments charged Gary

Steven DeSure, 32, and Preston Michael Mayo, 24, of Warren County, Va. They are tentatively scheduled for arraignment on the indictment Oct. 28.

Federal officials said DeSure had walked away from the state mental hospital in Warm Springs, Mont., where he had been committed for threatening a president, but they said they didn't know which president.

Both men are in custody at Santa Barbara, Calif., where they were arrested Aug. 26 — 10 days before the Fromme incident — in connection with the theft of the television set. They pleaded guilty to that charge and were sentenced to 90 days in the county jail.

They were arraigned there last month by a U.S. magistrate on charges of threatening the President and are being held in lieu of $100,000 bail each.

The alleged plot came to light the day after their arrest in Santa Barbara when DeSure allegedly told Detective Robert Zapata about the plan. Zapata said he had "built up a rapport" with DeSure, who "told me they had a plot to assassinate the President."

Zapata said DeSure had not disclosed any motive for the alleged plot — "I don't think he really has any strong political convictions... When you try to talk to him about his political views, he doesn't really have any strong political convictions that I can see."

The indictment alleged that DeSure and Mayo planned to plant a bomb in a sewer near the California state Capitol during Ford's visit. DeSure "would detonate the explosives and stand as a lookout" while Mayo "would fire a shot at the president," the indictment charged.

DeSure "told me they had gotten stopped by the California Highway Patrol at Burbank," Zapata said. "When the highway patrol approached (the car) they took off and dumped the car at the Burbank airport. He was concerned because in the car they dumped they left behind notes of their plan to assassinate the President." Authorities said they found the notes.

"They were going to hit an armory in San Francisco" where they would get dynamite and weapons, Zapata said, and then "would try to obtain plans for the sewer system in Sacramento ... so they could dynamite where the President might be."

A Justice Department official in Los Angeles said it is believed that the explosion was to be a diversion.

In 1973, terrorists killed Spanish Premier Luis Carrero Blanco with a bomb placed under a street in Madrid.

The indictment charged the alleged plot was launched about Aug. 12, the day before DeSure and Mayo entered Glacier National Park, Mont. Shortly afterwards they embarked on an auto trip east to Ohio, south to Tennessee then west to California.

In mid-August, they were in Dickson, Tenn., where they "wrote details pertaining to the equipment and plans necessary to accomplish the assassination attempt," the indictment related. They arrived in Santa Barbara Aug. 24, the indictment said.

Asst. U.S. Atty. John J. Resich Jr. said the pair tentatively are set for arraignment Oct. 28 and would be tried in Los Angeles.

The alleged plot was the third involving Ford in the past two months. In addition to the attempt by Miss Fromme in Sacramento Sept. 5, Sara Jane Moore, 45, was arrested in San Francisco Sept. 22 and charged with firing a shot at the President as he left a hotel.

DeSure and Mayo each were charged with conspiring to assassinate the President, which carries a maximum term of life in prison, and with threatening the President, which carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $1,000 fine.

New delay expected in Hearst case

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst is due back in court Wednesday but another postponement of her competency hearing appears likely, says one of her attorneys.

Albert Johnson, the Boston lawyer representing the jailed heiress along with F. Lee Bailey, said Monday that two reports from psychiatrists appointed by the court to examine Miss Hearst have been received. But the third report has not been completed.

The hearing, tentatively scheduled for Wednesday, could decide the course of further legal proceedings.

If declared incompetent, she might be hospitalized for months before facing trial on a variety of felony charges in federal and state courts. If ruled competent, she could be brought to trial before year's end.

However, Johnson said he believes that the federal Speedy Trial Act, which takes effect next July, does not apply to the Hearst case. He said that requirement for a trial within 90 days after arraignment is apparently suspended during time consumed by psychiatric evaluations. Miss Hearst, 21, was arrested Sept. 18.

Johnson said he visited with Patty for four to five hours Sunday night at the San Mateo County Jail. "Her ability to focus on matters about which we conversed was in my opinion limited severely."

Johnson, who has asked previously to have the defense team's own doctors examine the jailed heiress, said he would renew the request, but "probably not until the court receives its reports and makes an appropriate ruling."

Johnson said the defense had retained a team of "nationally prominent" psychiatrists. "I am not at liberty to tell you their names but they are all nationally known," he said.

U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter appointed three psychiatrists and a psychologist to examine her Sept. 23 after attorneys said she was too "frail" mentally and physically to take the stand at her bail hearing.

The psychiatric hearing had been expected earlier but was postponed when psychiatrists asked for more time to prepare their reports.

Dogs say humans don't understand

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "My master doesn't understand me." That's the most common complaint of William Campbell's mental patients — the German Shepherds, the St. Bernards, the fox terriers and even the poodles.

Campbell, sort of a dog psychiatrist, says most mental problems in dogs are caused by their owners.

"The dog is a great animal, but he needs to be better understood," said Campbell in a recent interview. "Normally, the dog has no problem. It's the people who have the problem."

Campbell, 45, calls himself a canine behavior specialist and is the president elect of the American Society of Veterinary Ethology, which deals with dog behavior problems.

He sees all sorts of dog problems — common house soiling and chewing, nervousness, lack of self esteem or even obesity.

"You can't change a dog's behavior without changing the dog owner in terms of how he relates to the dog," Campbell said.

A main reason for dog problems is that owners treat them inconsistently, alternating lavish praise with punishment, Campbell said. He favors rewarding good deeds.

Campbell said hyperactive children can make a dog hyperactive, and marital stress can be communicated to the dog.

"Most dogs have a tendency to reduce tension by barking, chewing or digging, or all three," Campbell said. "He can get a gastro-intestinal upset or colitis if the tension isn't stopped. We try to find out what's causing tension and if you can relieve that, the symptoms disappear."

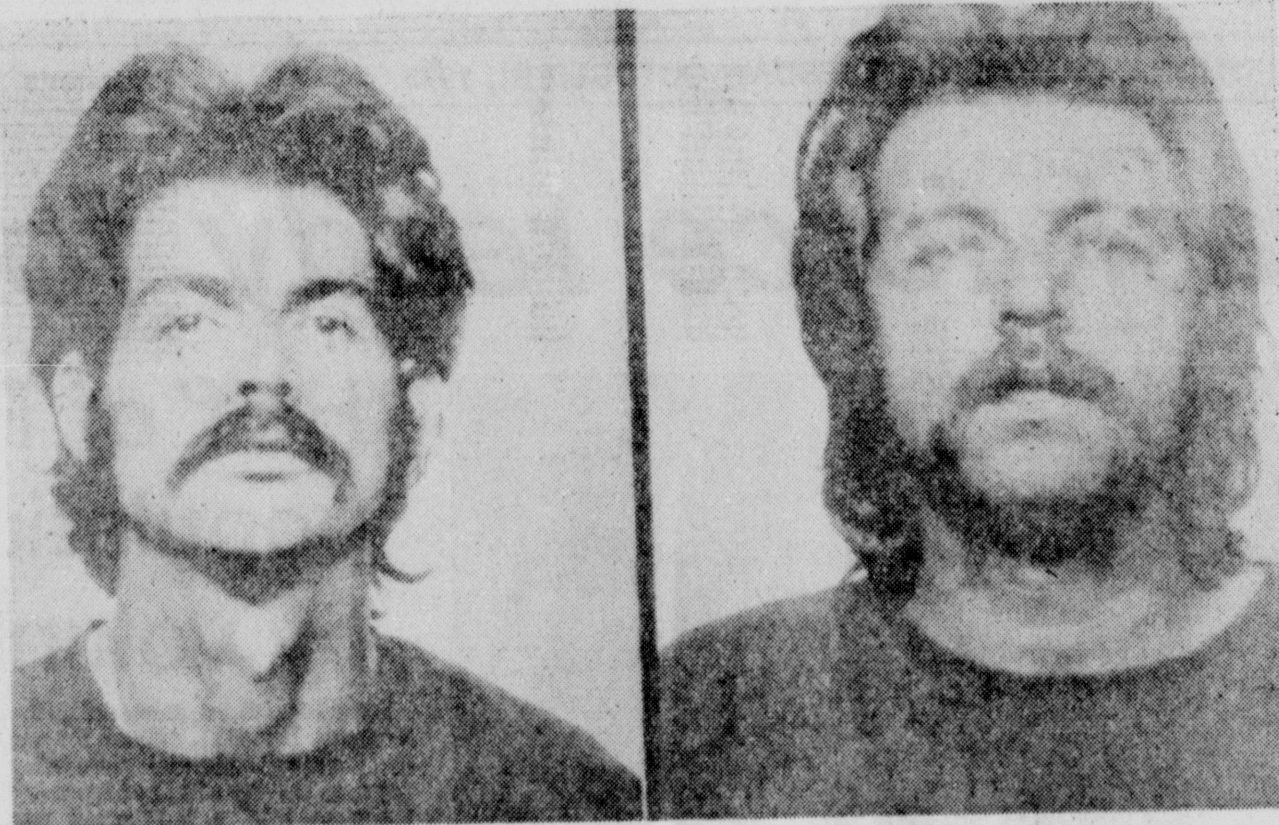

He said some problems are brought on by the canine "work ethic" or by a natural tendency of a dog to imitate his master.

"Dogs love to imitate people," he said. "If they see you blowing your nose, they'll do their best to imitate by tearing up the tissue or reeling off a whole roll of toilet paper."

And dogs like to have things to do, Campbell said. Their instincts tell them to find food, shelter and a bed.

"Nowadays, they don't have to do that, so they make up their own work, their own little tasks, like tearing up pillows. That's their chore."

Daily chores of chasing a ball can "give a dog a sense of function and fulfillment," Campbell said.

Cosmonauts see module again

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Though it was their first trip to California, two Soviet cosmonauts saw a familiar sight here — the command module that carried the U.S. crew to last summer's historic space rendezvous with the Soviets.

Aleksei Leonov, the commander of the two-man Soviet crew, climbed up the ladder to the module Monday at the Rockwell International plant, pointed to the hatch and said, "I know him."

Leonov and Valeriy Kubasov joined their American counterparts, Thomas Stafford, Donald Slayton and Vance Brand, for a tour of the Rockwell plant as part of their two-week goodwill visit to the United States.

Rockwell built the Apollo command ship and the docking mechanism for the July 17 hookup between the Soviet and American spacecraft.

As several thousand Rockwell employees looked on, Leonov offered thanks "to your hands, to your minds and your very good spacecraft. Thank you for your very big job."

The cosmonauts and astronauts also took a look at a mockup of the huge space shuttle planned to put American spacemen into orbit in the 1980s. Brand eagerly climbed into the cockpit of the craft, that is half rocket, half airplane and said, "Boy, I'd sure like to fly it."

The American and Soviet spacemen also signed their names in wet concrete slabs that will be placed on the Rockwell grounds.

While the five crewmen toured Rockwell, their wives and children visited a movie studio and Disneyland.

The spacemen fly to Washington, D.C., today and will conclude their tour in New York City on Sunday.

Leonov said one of the most impressive sights on the American tour was Muir Woods National Monument north of San Francisco.

"I am impressed by the people who protect these forests," he said. "It is important to have beautiful woods, but more important to keep them."

Edison, Indonesia sign oil pact

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Southern California Edison Co. has signed a 10-year contract reportedly in excess of $1 billion with Pertamina, the national oil company of Indonesia, to buy "substantial volumes" of low sulfur fuel, an Edison spokesman said.

William Seaman, vice president at Edison for fuel supply, said Monday the Pertamina contract, whose terms were not disclosed, "was designed to provide Edison's customers with favorable costs while gaining a supply of premium quality, low sulfur fuel from a stable source."

Seaman said he couldn't predict whether the deal would result in lower rates for Edison customers in Southern California, because any savings from the Pertamina contract could be offset by higher prices that may have to be paid to Standard Oil of California, which supplies Edison with about 60 per cent of Edison's fuel oil supply under a contract now being renegotiated.

Seaman also noted U.S. government tariffs "can wipe out any saving" from the Pertamina contract, which calls for the Indonesian company to supply Edison directly with refined oil for Edison's electric generators, which are expected to burn up to 55 million barrels of fuel oil next year.

Seaman said the price to be paid by Edison to Pertamina is lower than the average price of $15.20 per barrel it pays under other contracts.

Controversy forces delay in development

A clash between developers and environmentalists over methods and density has forced a second postponement of a controversial ordinance that would limit development of La Verne's hillsides.

The ordinance, already introduced, is designed to keep as much of the hills as possible in their natural state, and restricts the number of dwelling units that can be built there.

Its final passage was postponed two weeks ago when the City Council learned that plans were being processed for the development of 45 acres in Mountain Springs Estates, a fashionable neighborhood in La Verne Heights.

The developer, Mar-Jo Development Inc. of La Verne, contended that the ordinance as proposed would allow him to build only eight homes on the 45 acres.

"It would take a group of millionaires to live in such a development," Robert Mills, owner of Associated Engineers of Ontario, who represented the developer, told the council. "No one else could afford it."

He said Mar-Jo wanted to build 90 homes north of the present development. About 53 per cent of the acreage would be preserved in open space, he estimated.

But Julie Stewart, chairman of the city's commission on Environmental Quality, attacked the development and pleaded with the council not to "let them pull the wool over your eyes. Don't let them leave laughing."

She charged that the figures presented by Mills were "stacked for effect."

Councilman Dan Lopez called her statements "irrelevant" and told her that "we are not going to tear up the hills. But we are not going to pass up a good look at these people who are trying to build some $70,000 to $80,000 homes, either."

Mills said much of the area was too steep for construction, and this necessitated clustering homes closer to each other in the remaining acreage.

Since this meant building 90 homes on the 22 suitable acres, both Mrs. Stewart, and Robert Neher, another CEQ member, felt the density would be too high.

Neher said the commission estimated that 45 homes would be sufficient for the development, but Mills maintained that Mar-Jo would be unable to come out with such low density.

The council returned the ordinance to its staff for a second time to find some compromise and to report its findings in two weeks.

Girls' lag in science, math due to culture

WASHINGTON (AP) — Test scores showing that girls lag behind boys in such subjects as math and science tell more about girls' cultural conditioning than ability, two congresswomen say.

"It's not that they can't learn," says Rep. Patricia Schroeder, but that society discourages them from doing so.

The Colorado Democrat told the House in a speech Monday that women are told their interest in science should be "the fact that they should have 21-year-old looking hands when they're 30 ... and that they should look to science to get rings out of the collars of men. How do you expect them to become chemists?"

The report Oct. 13 by the National Assessment of Educational Progress showed that girls slowly but steadily lose ground to boys from ages 9 to 17 in results on nationwide achievement tests. Girls were particularly deficient in math and science but also lost their previous edge in reading and literature as they got older.

Rep. Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., said the survey shows "that obviously there is still an enormous cultural conditioning which influences men and women. Women are still conceived in the television and radio as being creatures of consumption who run around squeezing toilet paper and worrying about the shine of their floors and the taste of their coffee. And that's the role that many of them are prepared to believe they still have to carry forward."

The House on Monday derailed her hopes for swift approval of a $10 million bill authorizing a national women's conference.

The House refused to consider the bill under a speed-up process reserved for noncontroversial measures. But Rep. Abzug said she sees no problem in getting the bill approved under normal procedures.

Some opponents of the measure voiced concern that it would become a rallying point for advocates of the Equal Rights Amendment. Republicans objected to the spending of the money at a time when New York and other cities are in financial trouble.

"It appears there was some pressure brought by groups who oppose the ERA, who are financed by industry and big business which doesn't want to see women get any kind of opportunity," she said.

Kissinger holds surprise meet with Mao-Tse-tung

PEKING (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger held a surprise meeting Tuesday night with Chairman Mao Tse-tung.

Communist China's 81-year-old leader invited Kissinger to his house in Peking after the secretary of state had met for an hour with Deputy Premier Teng Hsiao-ping. It was their third meeting.

Kissinger arrived at Mao's home at 6:30 p.m. accompanied by his wife, Nancy, and seven aides.

After being introduced to Mao, Mrs. Kissinger and five of the aides left. George Bush, the U.S. liaison officer in Peking, and Winston Lord, Kissinger's special assistant, remained for Mao's talk with the secretary of state.

It was not immediately learned how long the meeting between Kissinger and Mao lasted.

Despite his meeting with Mao, there was no indication that Kissinger would get to see Premier Chou En-lai during his five-day visit to the Chinese capital. Chou is reported very ill with heart trouble and is not known to have seen a foreign visitor in six weeks.

Before his late-afternoon meeting with Teng, Kissinger spent most of the day in a sightseeing excursion to the Fragrant Hills, an hour's drive to the west of Peking.

In a setting reminiscent of the mountains of Vermont and New Hampshire, Kissinger and Foreign Minister Chiao Kuanhua strolled for two miles along wooded paths lined with cypress and sumac trees, past pagoda gates and country houses.

An overcast sky chilled the air, but Kissinger seemed pleased with the lily ponds and ornately decorated bridges.

"It's lovely and relaxing."

Picnicking workers and students watched curiously as the Americans walked by. A group of radical students from the Red Guard movement waited beside the trail with red flags, but they did not wave them.

Kissinger spotted a family at a crossroads and went over to their two small children. The obviously pleased parents shoved the toddlers forward, and they shyly shook the secretary's hand and smiled.

As he arrived at a guest house for lunch, Kissinger told a newsman the 45-minute walk was the most exercise he had had in years.

Science can do nothing for coma

MORRISTOWN, N.J. (AP) — A neurologist testified today that medical science can do nothing to bring Karen Ann Quinlan out of a coma.

Dr. Julius Korein, who examined Miss Quinlan as well as 200 other comatose patients in the last few years, made the assertion in testimony at a trial of a plea by Miss Quinlan's parents that she be allowed to "die with dignity."

"Can the art of medicine repair the damage?" asked the Quinlan's attorney, Paul W. Armstrong.

"In my opinion, no," the neurologist said.

"Is there any course of treatment that will lead to the improvement of Karen's condition?" Armstrong asked.

"No," the brain doctor said. "I and many of my colleagues do not believe in saving a life that will lay as a vegetable for 10 years."

During Korein's testimony, Julia Quinlan walked wobbly-legged from the courtroom with tears welling in her eyes. The slender, red-haired homemaker left in apparent reaction to Korein's description of her emaciated, contorted 21-year-old daughter, who has feeding tubes and a respirator hooked to her body. The daughter is in a vegetative state and has difficulty breathing without the respirator, Korein said.

Mrs. Quinlan and her husband, Joseph, were scheduled to testify after Korein. They are seeking authority to disconnect the respirator, which has been keeping their daughter alive for six months.

Burglary at Ford committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Discovery of an attempted burglary at the offices of President Ford's campaign committee stirred memories of Watergate, but officials quickly discounted any comparisons.

Lester R. Benjamin, accountant for the President Ford Committee, reported finding two jimmy-bar marks on a file cabinet when he unlocked it Monday morning. But whoever tried to pry the cabinet open was unsuccessful and nothing was taken, he said.

The heavy-duty cabinet contained checks, cash and financial records but no political documents, according to Benjamin and Robert Visser, general counsel for the committee.

"We can't presume the burglar had any political motivations," Visser said. "There is no indication that this was any kind of a political attempt to do anything."

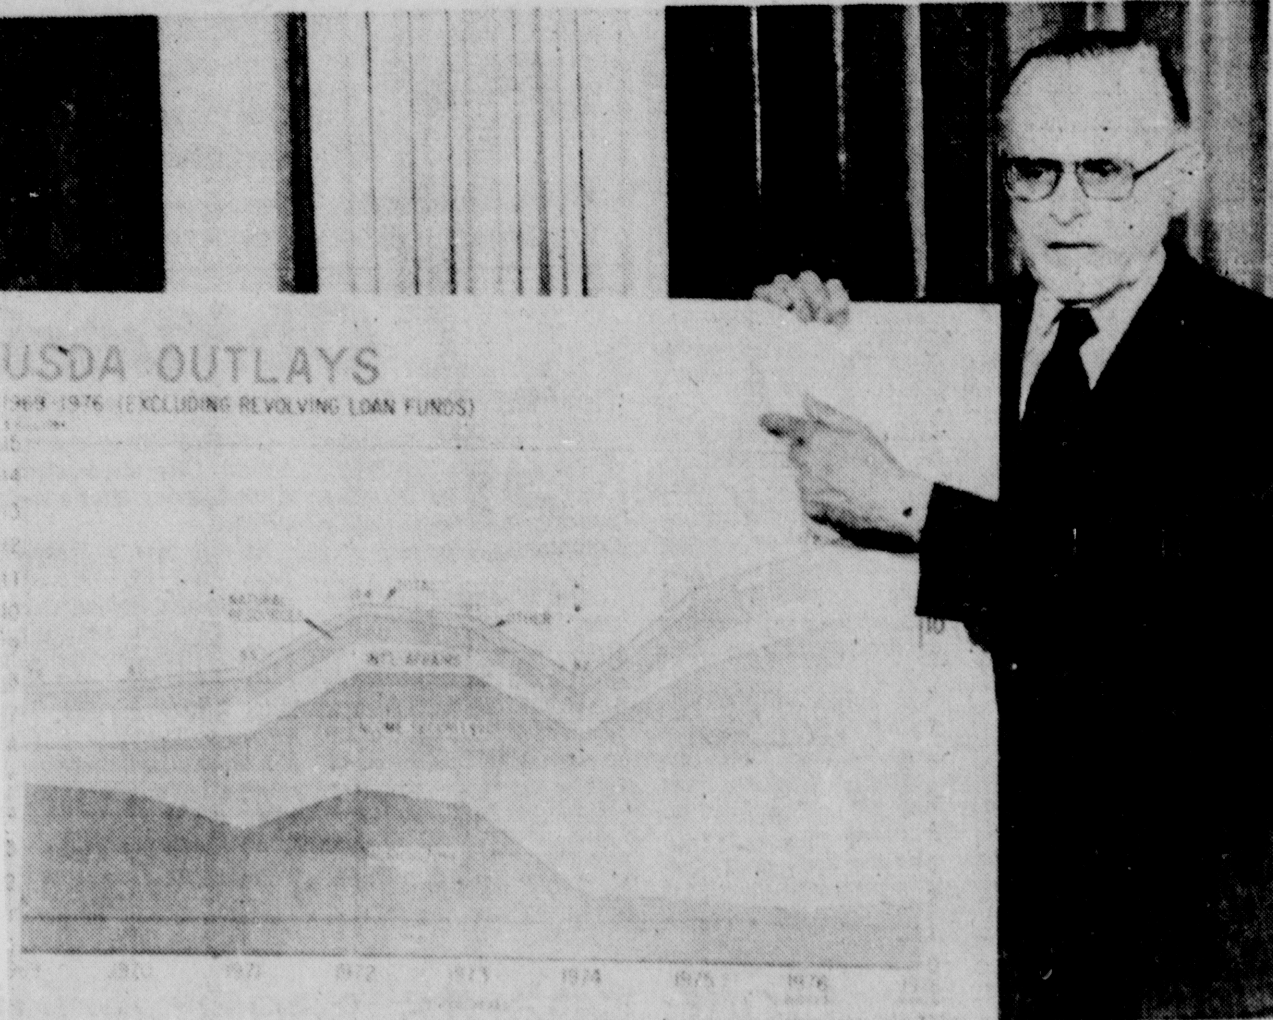

The commission would be most unwise if it were to read (the law) in a manner which opens wide opportunities for abuses."

Earlier, the U.S. Chamber of Commerce said there are no specific legal limits on corporate-sponsored fund-raising.

"The solicitation may be as widespread as the articles and bylaws of the (company-sponsored) committee permit," wrote chamber lawyer Stanley T. Kaleczyc Jr.

Corporations and unions may not legally make direct donations to candidates for federal office, but they may set up political funds to collect private, voluntary donations for chosen campaigns.

Union funds are among the biggest. The main AFL-CIO fund reports current assets of $70,000 in cash and $50,000 in U.S. Treasury notes. The UAW has two funds with combined assets of $624,000 cash.

WHERE USDA MONEY GOES

as he briefs newsmen at the White House Monday on Administration food stamp proposals.

$1.2 billion saving seen in food stamp changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration's recommendations for changing the food-stamp program will save $1.2 billion in federal expenditures and disqualify about 17 per cent of the estimated 18.8 million persons in the program.

But Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., chief cosponsor of a rival bill, told Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz on Monday that the administration's bill seemed a "surrender to some of the more extreme critics of the program."

The administration recommended that eligibility for the program be denied to all those whose net income is above the official poverty levels for various-sized families.

That net income would be determined by subtracting from gross earnings before taxes a standard $100 per household and another $25 per household if a family member were 60 years old or older. That means a gross-income cap of between $6,250 and $6,550 for a four-person family.

A rival bill sponsored by Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., and McGovern has a standard deduction of $125 a month plus $25 for the elderly. The cap in the Dole-McGovern proposal is $7,796 for four, after taxes.

A measure sponsored by some congressional conservatives, led by Sen. James L. Buckley, Con-R-N.Y., and Rep. Robert H. Michel, R-Ill., the House minority whip, allows only a $25 deduction for the elderly and would cap the program at the poverty level, including "income" from such "in-kind" government programs as school lunches.

Neither the Ford nor the Buckley-Michel bills would allow deductions of payroll taxes.

Under the present system, a four-person household that earns $400 in cash a month, or $4,800 a year, would have a net income of $330 a month if it took the average amount of itemized deductions, $70.

It would pay $95 in cash for $162 in coupons redeemable for food at retail stores, for a benefit of $67.

Under the Ford plan, the family's net income would be $300 a month if it had no elderly members. It would pay $90 for $166 in stamps, for a benefit of $76 a month. However, if that family improved its income by $120.92 a month, it would lose all benefits.

Under the present system, such a family boosting its gross income to $6,251 would be able to get the $162 in stamps for $138 in cash, a benefit of $44 a month.

Homosexual's appeal denied

WASHINGTON (AP) — Air Force Secretary John McLucas today reject T.Sgt. Leonard P. Matlovich's appeal from a decision to discharge him because he is a homosexual.

McLucas upheld the honorable discharge ordered for Matlovich by Col. Alton J. Thorgersen, the sergeant's commanding officer at Langley Air Force Base, Va.

On Sept. 30 Thorgersen upgraded the proposed discharge for Matlovich from a general to an honorable discharge.

The Matlovich case has become something of a landmark because the 32-year-old sergeant, a Vietnam veteran, publicly declared his homosexuality and insisted this should not be grounds for discharge from the Air Force.

Matlovich has been kept on active duty pending a final decision on his request last March 6 that the Air Force waive regulations calling for discharge of homosexuals.

Business, labor groups fight for political funds of corporations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Business and labor groups are locked in a fight over the future of political funds being set up by major U.S. corporations.

The Federal Election Commission is set to rule this week on whether corporations may legally pay for such things as a payroll deduction plan for employee political donations.

Top lawyers for the AFL-CIO and the independent United Auto Workers, in an unusual show of unity, sent a joint letter to the commission urging it to ban use of corporate money for soliciting political donations from anyone but company stockholders.

The letter, released Monday, cited a number of legal arguments and concluded by saying, "Watergate exposed a systematic refusal by the corporate community to abide by the limitations imposed by Congress."

The commission would be most unwise if it were to read (the law) in a manner which opens wide opportunities for abuses."

Earlier, the U.S. Chamber of Commerce said there are no specific legal limits on corporate-sponsored fund-raising.

"The solicitation may be as widespread as the articles and bylaws of the (company-sponsored) committee permit," wrote chamber lawyer Stanley T. Kaleczyc Jr.

Corporations and unions may not legally make direct donations to candidates for federal office, but they may set up political funds to collect private, voluntary donations for chosen campaigns.

Union funds are among the biggest. The main AFL-CIO fund reports current assets of $70,000 in cash and $50,000 in U.S. Treasury notes. The UAW has two funds with combined assets of $624,000 cash.

The unions raise the money from their members.

Until this year, few major corporations even had political funds, and those that did, including General Electric and Hughes Aircraft Co., gave a fraction of what the big union funds spent.

Changes in the law have brought new interest in corporate political funds. New committees have been registered this year by such giants as U.S. Steel, Pan American World Airways, Sun Oil Co., Standard Oil of California, Lockheed Aircraft Corp. and Anaconda Co.

Sun Oil asked the FEC for official clearance to use company money to raise political donations from employees and "others" for its fund, controlled by company executives. It also proposed a separate payroll deduction plan, a sort of political "Christmas club" through which employees may set aside a little each pay period for political donations to candidates they choose themselves.

The FEC staff proposed limiting company-sponsored fundraising to stockholders. This would let Sun Oil and other firms pay for fund appeals mailed with stockholder reports. It would ban unreimbursed use of the company computer and staff for a payroll deduction plan.

Check-off plans are rich sources of political cash. Associated Milk Producers, a dairy farmer cooperative, uses a check-off and has $1.8 million. The Marine Engineers union takes voluntary political donations from pension checks and has $530,000 available.

Commission Chairman Thomas B. Curtis and member Joan D. Aikens have spoken in favor of employee plans. The panel's legal staff is drafting alternative proposals and the FEC is set to choose one Thursday.

Russ oil deal

Embargo lifted on grain sales

WASHINGTON (AP) — American farmers are now free to sell grain to the Soviet Union following the announcement of long-term U.S.-Russian pacts covering the sale of U.S. grain and the purchase of Soviet oil.

As the embargo was being lifted Monday, Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz said as much as seven million more metric tons of U.S. grain might be sold to the Soviets this year.

The two-month-old embargo was imposed by President Ford last summer after the Soviets purchased 9.8 million metric tons of grain from American exporters. The embargo stemmed from concern over the impact on U.S. prices that exports could have and some nervousness that predictions of bumper U.S. crops this year might not prove true.

The long-term agreement was hailed in some quarters as the economic equivalent of detente but was criticized by farm organizations as an unprecedented government intervention in agricultural markets.

Ford said the pact would provide stability in U.S.-Soviet trade and help American workers and consumers. AFL-CIO President George Meany, who last August ordered U.S. longshoremen to boycott Russian-bound grain, said it was "good news for American consumers and farmers."

The future grain exports were expected to have some impact on consumer food prices, though forecasts varied about the magnitude of such price increases.

The agreement:

— Lets Russia buy between 6 million and 8 million metric tons of corn and wheat annually, beginning a year from now. There are 2,205 pounds in a metric ton. Officials said the deal will be worth $1 billion a year to the U.S. trade balance. Soybeans and rice were not included in the agreement.

— Gives the United States an escape clause in case of domestic crop failure if the U.S. supply of livestock feed grain dips below 225 million tons. This year's supply is estimated at 263.1 million tons.

— Commits the Russians to try to space their grain purchases and shipments as evenly as possible over each year.

U.S. arms aid in Angola fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although the United States officially is maintaining a hands-off policy toward the civil war in Angola, some officials clearly leave the impression that U.S. arms aid may be reaching two of the three factions fighting in the African colony.

U.S. officials were reluctant to confirm or deny reports of U.S. arms being supplied to factions fighting the Moscow-backed Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola.

The oil agreement, which is tentative and requires further negotiations later this month, calls for the Soviet Union to offer to sell 200,000 barrels of crude oil and other petroleum products a day over the five-year period.

This amounts to about 3.5 per cent of recent U.S. daily imports. By comparison, the Alaskan pipeline is expected to handle 1.2 million barrels daily during initial operations in 1977.

U.S. officials said Soviet oil would have diplomatic value because it signals the cartel of the Organization of Oil Exporting Countries that the United States can find other sources for imported oil.

One U.S. official said that if the oil was purchased at anything resembling the current world price of around $12 a barrel, it would go a long way toward providing the Soviet Union the hard currency it needs to buy the American grain.

The grain sales of the Soviet Union are not likely to deplete American grain reserves significantly. The exports earlier this year included 4.5 million tons of wheat, which was 7 per cent of the 1975 wheat supply — production and stockpile — and 4.7 million tons of corn, which was 3 per cent of the corn supply.

Nevertheless, the psychological impact of increased demand is expected to boost food prices.

Butz, as he has before, said the Soviet grain pact would have "negligible" impact on U.S. food prices, and his department has estimated that retail grocery costs will go up about 1.5 per cent through the coming year because of Soviet grain sales.

The congressional Joint Economic Committee said Monday that food prices are expected to rise about 1 per cent through next September because of grain already sold to Russia.

The Department of Agriculture has predicted the 1975 food price hike will be held to an average of 9 per cent, compared with 14.5 per cent in each of the past two years.

Grain prices rose this summer on the strength of Russian sales and will tend to prevent livestock producers from expanding output as much as they would if grain prices had been lower.

When grain prices are high, especially for corn, livestock farmers feed less to animals, meaning less meat, milk, and poultry for consumers. That translates into higher food prices or at least no significant reduction in grocery bills.

Leaders of two major farmers' groups denounced the agreement. Oren Lee Staley, president of the National Farmers Organization, called it "illegal and outrageous interference in agricultural markets."

William J. Kuhfuss, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, said the agreement established "an apparent trend toward government domination of international trade in agricultural commodities."

26 killed, 55 hurt in Mexico subway crash

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mayor Octavio Senties blames "technical and perhaps human failure" for the rush-hour collision of two subway trains that took the lives of 26 persons and injured 55.

A spokesman for the mayor said there was no suspicion of sabotage. Key factors appeared to be that the train in front was slightly behind schedule because its emergency cord had been pulled twice, and an electronic emergency braking system on the second train "somehow didn't work."

Red Cross authorities said. An investigation commission went to work immediately.

The collision Monday morning was the first major accident on Mexico City's 6-year-old subway, built with French assistance at a cost of $640 million and modeled on the Paris Metro.

The accident occurred above ground at the Viaducto station, some 20 blocks south of the city's main plaza.

Train No. 8 was stopped at the station, putting off and taking on passengers, when Train No. 10 crashed into its rear. The trains were packed with commuters on their way to work, women on their way to market, university students in blue jeans and schoolchildren.

"The impact was so tremendous that the second train ploughed halfway through the rear car of the waiting train," said Red Cross worker Arturo Luna. "The first train was thrust up into the station's roof."

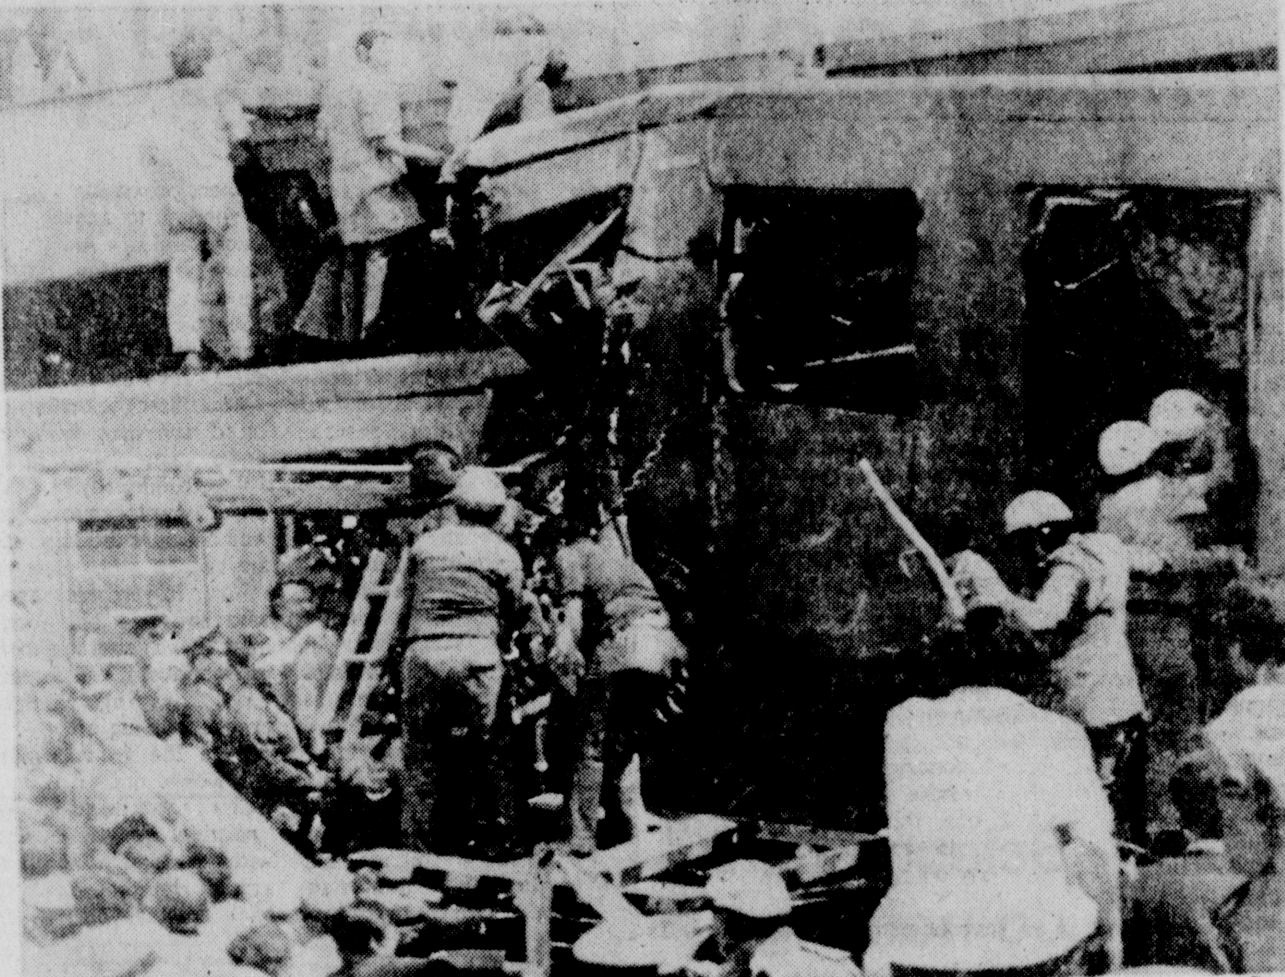

"There was blood everywhere, screaming and hysteria, and cries coming from within the twisted wreckage."

People were crushed under seats, speared by handrails and jammed between pieces of steel.

The driver of the waiting train was not hurt and was being questioned. The other driver was in critical condition at the Red Cross Hospital.

The mayor at first was told that 32 bodies had been recovered, but later this was reduced to 22. Four more passengers died in hospitals.

The accident occurred on the north-south line that goes to the Aztec Stadium where the PanAmerican Games are being held. But there were no events scheduled there Monday morning, so no fans or athletes were aboard the trains.

Obituaries

Loretta Wenman

Mrs. Loretta A. Wenman of 590 S. Indian Hill Blvd., Claremont, died Monday morning in Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

Mrs. Wenman was born Dec. 16, 1887, in Spring Lake, Mich. She came to California in 1922 from Michigan. She had been a resident of San Diego prior to moving to Claremont in 1968.

She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Jerrodene Kerr of Claremont; a granddaughter, Miss Kristine Black of Fullerton; and a grandson, Kevin A. Kerr of Ft. Bliss, El Paso, Tex.

A Rosary will be recited tonight at 7:30 in Todd Memorial Chapel Claremont. Mass of the Christian Burial will be celebrated Wednesday at 11 a.m. in the chapel at the Holy Cross Mausoleum, San Diego. Entombment will be made in the Holy Cross Mausoleum.

Joseph W. Mautz

Joseph William Mautz of Salton City died at his home Monday after a short illness.

He was born in Wabash, Ind., Jan. 22, 1915. He came to the Pomona area in 1919 and attended Pomona schools. He was graduated from Pomona High School in 1934, and moved to El Monte in 1942. Mr. Mautz lived there until moving to Salton City in 1971.

Mr. Mautz was a member of the sheriff's reserve of Imperial County.

He is survived by his widow, Grace; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Mautz of La Verne; a daughter, Linda Nolan of El Monte; a son, Robert also of El Monte, two brothers, Dick of Paradise and Harold of Pomona; and three grandchildren.

Services will be held Wednesday at 10 a.m. at Frye Chapel in Brawley and Thursday at 11 a.m. in Pomona Mausoleum. Todd Memorial Chapel is in charge of arrangements.

Hugo Zacchini

Hugo Zacchini of Fontana, the "human cannonball" of circus fame, died Monday in a San Bernardino hospital of a stroke. It was his 77th birthday.

Zacchini was born Oct. 20, 1898, in Peru. He was one of 16 children in a circus family. At the age of 12 he was graduated from the Rome Art Academy and joined his family's circus in Europe as the conclusion of World War I, during which he had been a member of the French Foreign Legion.

He achieved international fame beginning in 1922 when he became the first human cannonball in a circus performance in Cairo, Egypt, propelled from a spring-loaded cannon designed by his father, Hildebrand.

In 1928, circus magnate John Ringling saw Zacchini's act in Denmark and signed Zacchini and one of his brothers to a 10-year $100 per day contract.

For their American tours, Zacchini redesigned the cannon to use compressed air for propulsion. It launched him at speeds of more than 165 miles per hour, and carried him more than 100 feet into the air before he landed in a net at 100 miles per hour. "Being shot from a cannon? It takes much courage and strength—and nerves," said Zacchini in an interview with the Progress Bulletin last year. He estimated he had been shot from the cannon more than 11,000 times in his career. His last performance was in 1961.

Zacchini was injured many times during his career, although he never missed the net. The injuries were usually caused by striking guy wires or other obstructions.

Zacchini and his wife, Elsa, settled in Fontana in 1965. Proud of his 40 years as a circus performer, Zacchini maintained the cannon in the front yard of his home.

In retirement, Zacchini's artistic talents led him to a voluntary teaching position with Chaffey College. He taught art in convalescent homes throughout the area.

In addition to his widow, Zacchini is survived by a son, Hugo, Jr., and a daughter, Pachay Elsa Zacchini, both of Fontana; six brothers, two sisters and three grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements have not been announced.

Mountain conquered

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — A Yugoslav expedition has twice scaled the previously unclimbed south face of 27,790 foot Mt. Makalu, the world's fifth highest mountain, according to a message received today from the base camp.

The 21-man team's deputy leader, Sine Belak, 35, and Marjan Manfreda, 25, climbed the rocky slope Oct. 6, followed two days later by team members Janko Zaman, 26, and Nejc Zaplotnik, 23, the message said.

Return of blimps, sail ships?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A California congressman wants to bring back blimps and sailing ships. Democratic Rep. George E. Brown says using them for commercial shipping could save enormous amounts of energy.

Brown introduced legislation on Monday urging increased federal efforts to retrieve dirigibles and sailing ships from the pages of history and return them to active service.

"Energy costs keep increasing, but the wind is going to remain as cheap as ever," said Brown, chairman of the House environment and atmosphere subcommittee. "It is time to take a giant step backward."

He told a news conference he isn't suggesting that zeppelins and schooners can replace modern ships or jet airplanes. But Brown said wind-propelled and lighter-than-air craft are ideal for certain chores, especially when travel time isn't an important factor.

For instance, he said dirigibles can be used for ferrying heavy cargo over short distances, especially from ship to shore. They can also be used as airborne monitoring stations in worldwide environmental programs, he said.

Sailing ships can be used to ship cargo over long ocean routes at considerably lower costs than using conventional diesel-powered cargo vessels, he said.

Brown predicted that if an aggressive effort is made, lighter-than-air craft and sailing ships could handle 10 to 20 percent of the cargo that is now shipped commercially.

He said it should take an initial federal investment of from $1 million to $2 million to get the program off the ground.

"Lighter-than-air aircraft and sailing ships have in common a proven technological feasibility, a significant savings in energy consumption and perhaps most significantly, they share the scorn of those who are committed to having planes and ships become bigger and faster," Brown said.

"This is not some crackpot scheme to focus attention on myself," Brown said it was a well-thought-out effort to come to grips with increasing energy costs and diminishing fuel reserves.

Children's Bureau of Los Angeles — a United Crusade-supported agency — counseled 444 families considering placement of children during 1974.

Help me kill myself, dying woman writes

PALM SPRINGS (AP) — A Wisconsin woman recently asked Bill Plachta to help her kill herself with sleeping pills. Plachta said he couldn't do it, just as he couldn't do more than watch as his wife killed herself.

"I am dying from cancer," the letter from Wisconsin said. "I pray for an easy, sure, painless solution. Please tell me what and how many sleeping pills she took.... Time is running out for me."

Plachta told the woman to consult with a doctor and apologized for being unable to help her.

When his own wife, Francesca, took a fatal overdose of her own prescription drugs in August, Plachta could only sit and wait quietly for about 24 hours.

"She was unconscious throughout," he recalls. "I just was near her in case she would come out of it. I just didn't want her to wake and be scared that she was alone."

Plachta says, "If it had been me, she would have helped me. All her life she has helped other people. I loved her very much."

Mrs. Plachta, 49, suffered a rare and terminal brain disease that slowly paralyzed her. She could move only one arm and barely talk when she died.

Plachta, 65, was at first booked for investigation of manslaughter under a law that makes it a crime to fail to take action that could save a life. Earlier this month the district attorney decided not to charge Plachta.

He's received sympathetic letters from all over. There are a few others, like the letter from Wisconsin, from people who are dying and know Plachta will understand.

"I'm not a revolutionary," he says. "I can't advise people. I just had one thing to think about, to worry about. I had my wife."

Cycle-gang member sought in revenge shooting that kills girl

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Joseph Mauro, his 7-year-old daughter Ann tucked in his arms, raced past the windows of his neighbors screaming "My child. They shot my child."

His wife, Carol, tried to keep up with him but collapsed against a stone wall, neighbors said.

Police today were searching for a member of the Southwest Philadelphia Warlocks Motorcycle Club on a charge of first-degree murder in the child's death.

Police said Edward "Ace" Kivlin, 24, of Yeadon, came to the Mauro house Saturday night with four friends apparently seeking revenge for a beating Mauro had given one of his buddies after the man challenged Mauro to a fight in a bar Friday night.

Neighbors said they believed the 5-foot-9, 180-pound Mauro was a former prize fighter. Mauro wasn't available for comment.

"Mauro came to the door and Kivlin challenged him to come out and fight," Darby Borough Police Chief Paul Coleman said. "He saw the other four and didn't go out."

But Mauro, described by neighbors as a doting father, poked his head out a window to answer their taunts and saw Ann coming home from play. He ran out and grabbed his daughter and a series of shots rang out, witnesses said. Ann was hit.

Mauro picked up the girl, blood spurting from her head, and ran toward Fitzgerald Mercy Hospital, about two blocks away. She was dead by the time they arrived.

Mrs. Rosemary Capello said she and her family heard the shots shortly after 5:20 p.m. "It sounded like a string of firecrackers going off. We all ran to the front window and looked out."

She said Mauro was "running up the street" with his daughter in his arms. Her head was tilted back and her blonde hair was hanging down. And he (Mauro) was screaming, "My child. They shot my child." Her body was limp in his arms.

Mrs. Elizabeth Lober, another neighbor, said she ran out to help Mrs. Mauro and quoted the mother as saying: "I know who they were."

Neighbors said the girl was a second grade pupil at Blessed Virgin Mary School. They said the Mauro girls seemed to be "well taken care of."

"They were always well dressed and they seemed like very happy children," a neighbor said, adding the Mauros "were very doting about the girls."

Neighbors said Mauro, his wife, and their daughters, Nina, 5, and Ann, moved in their two-story row house about four years ago. Police said a nationwide search was begun for Kivlin, who was described as 6-foot-2, with shoulder-length hair and a scar over his left eye that pulls it partially closed. The four men who accompanied Kivlin also were being sought, but they were not named and it was not known whether they were members of the motorcycle club.

Russia's White Sea was named for the glistening ice that covers it most of the year.

Medical students sue to halt school's escalating tuition

WASHINGTON (AP) — Many medical educators are watching an unusual court case brought by a group of medical students here who are suing their school to block escalating tuition, a national affliction in health education.

Six medical students filed a class action lawsuit in District of Columbia Superior Court in mid-August on behalf of 240 of their classmates who have contributed to lawyers' fees. A decision in the case is expected soon.

The students base their claim on an alleged breach of contract arising from statements in the school catalog which they say promised only a $200 annual increase in tuition through 1979.

Instead, tuition at George Washington University medical school has jumped $1,800, or 56 per cent, to $5,000 annually in the past year and could more than double again by 1976-77 to $12,500 a year.

Lawyers for the medical school argue that the statement in the catalog was "merely a statement of intention" rather than a binding legal obligation. The students' lawyers say the catalog's use of the word "estimate" "signifies more than a mere guess or conjecture."

At any rate, the school later changed that part of the catalog dealing with future tuition. The catalog now says administrators are "unable to predict what tuition will be in future years."

From the school's point of view, the case bears on whether tuition may be again increased. When the school's trustees last January approved the $1,800 tuition hike for 1975-76, school officials issued a statement saying a hike to $12,500 would be necessary next year because of inflation, faculty salaries and the possible loss of federal funds.

Paul Epstein, a second-year medical student at George Washington and coordinator of the dissenting students, says, "At the projected tuition levels, many students will have to drop out of medical school and maybe out of medicine, since they'll have a hard time transferring to other medical schools."

According to a study by the medical student government last spring, about 60 per cent of the 450

George Washington medical students rely on some financial aid. Almost 50 per cent of freshman, sophomore and junior classes have outstanding loans ranging from $3,200 to $7,500.

The court action is of interest to medical school administrators who say inflation, soaring energy prices and cutbacks in federal aid are forcing the costs of health education to rise sharply, said a spokesman for the Association of American Medical Colleges.

The educators contend that increased tuition is their only alternative in the face of a loss of endowments and cutbacks in government financial support for medical education.

The George Washington dispute is closely tied to the future of federal funding, which represents the key to medical education finances.

Federal funds from all sources of $1.6 billion account for almost 50 per cent of the aid to medical schools, according to Dr. Theodore Cooper, assistant secretary of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

In July, the House approved $9,050,000 for health schools in the District of Columbia, under the D.C. Medical-Dental Manpower Act which provides "state-like" support of $5,000 per student at George Washington and Georgetown schools of medicine and dentistry.

However, this provision expires next June 30 because Congress has granted "home rule" to the District of Columbia.

There also are federal "capitation" grants to medical schools based on the number of students. These grants to the nation's 114 medical schools average about $1,500 for each of the 50,000 enrolled students to help pay the cost of educating a student, which comes to about $15,000 a year per student, according to an Institute of Medicine-National Academy of Sciences survey.

Earlier in the year, the Office of Management and Budget had urged abolition of capitation support, but Cooper announced last month that the Ford administration had reversed its policy. Cooper said President Ford now endorses the continuation of capitation grants tied to conditions "relieving geographical and specialty maldistributions."

However, a White House spokesman said last week that the President opposes the $9,050,000 in distress funds to D.C. health schools since it would "single out these institutions for preferential treatment" and they "can't be justified on programmatic or economic grounds."

Earthquake-safe schools urged

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California schools chief Wilson Riles says school buildings which don't meet earthquake safety standards should be repaired or abandoned immediately.

Riles said in a letter to local school superintendents that the Oroville earthquake Oct. 1 showed the danger of using buildings which don't conform to the Field Act, California's 1933 earthquake safety law.

The letter was revealed Saturday.

He said Oroville's three pre-Field Act school buildings "performed badly during the earthquakes (and) would have been very hazardous to students had they been present," Riles said.

Windows broke, and parts of light fixtures, items on shelves and maps and pictures hung on walls fell down, he said. The district now plans to demolish all three, abandoning plans to use two as a senior citizens' center and a home for a local historical society.

Horn-Pavkovich vows exchanged

Miss Patricia Ann Pavkovich of Pomona and Edward Wesley Horn II of Claremont were married recently in St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Pomona.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Pavkovich of Pomona and the son of Mrs. Theresa Horn of Claremont and Edward Horn of Tustin were married in a double-ring afternoon ceremony read by the Rev. John Z. Cosgrove.

Honor attendant was Miss Jane O'Leary. Bridesmaids were Miss Kathy Pavkovich, Miss Mary Ann Recupero, Miss Melia Mello, Mrs. Kathy Drake and Mrs. Charlene Pavkovich.

Standing as best man was Kevin Eggleston. Ushers were Richard Pavkovich, James Mc Gee, Ron Ramirez, Mike Gearty and Daniel Richardson. Flower girls were Katie Mc Gee and Terri Ann Herrmann and ring bearer was Jimmy Mc Gee.

Following the rite, a reception was held at the Knights of Columbus Hall. When the couple returns from a wedding trip to northern California, the newlyweds will establish a home in Upland.

Seminar speaker revealed

Dr. Thomas Lasswell, professor of sociology at USC, consultant in the behavioral sciences, will discuss "Children and How to Enjoy Them" Thursday from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Marriage Enrichment Seminar to be held at the Valley Community Drive-In Church, San Dimas.

The public is invited to attend. A nominal fee is charged. Babysitting is furnished at no additional charge.

YWCA program announced

High blood pressure can lead to strokes, heart failure and kidney damage — a killer that can be controlled. A panel will discuss the causes and effects of hypertension on Thursday at 7:30 p.m., at the YWCA, 207 E. Monterey, Pomona.

Panelists include Dr. Patricia F. Lanier, internist; Dr. Toni Wood, psychiatrist; Betty Allen, professor of nursing; and Dr. Anahid Crecelios, professor of nutrition, Cal Poly, Pomona.

Newlyweds at home in Pomona

Newly wed Mr. and Mrs. Phillip L. Endicott have established a home in Pomona following their marriage in Las Vegas, Nev.

The former Miss Linda Larson is the daughter of Mrs. Joy Larson of Pomona. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Adrian of Pomona.

Honor attendant was Mrs. Irene Scarth of Pomona.

Best man was Michael W. Scarth, Sr., of Pomona.

A reception was held for the couple by Mr. and Mrs. Michael Scarth, Sr.

Joyce Brothers

Is her daughter lost?

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: My husband has been extremely promiscuous all his life and now he is furious because our daughter is behaving the same way. I have tried to provide a good example for her but I know she is sexually free with a number of young men. This shocks and hurts me, but there's nothing I can do but hope she won't become pregnant.

I even think that she may have had VD last year. She would go out at a fairly regular time to see someone and she wouldn't tell me who it was. I'm sure she was going to a local clinic, but I was too ashamed to question her. I guess her father and I are at opposite extremes. I have tried to compensate for his moral looseness by turning to religion and stressing that side of love.

I feel we have lost a daughter and while I pray for her constantly, I feel I've failed. —V.J.

Dear V.J.: I wouldn't consider your daughter lost.

It is never too late to try to establish communication with her and to try to build mutual trust and respect. Parental conflicts concerning sex are very hard on children and can have a crucial bearing on the attitudes and conflicts that people develop about sex. Parents often surround the subject with a seductive air of mystery that stimulates at the same time it condemns. Under the circumstances you describe, it's not surprising that your daughter behaves as she does. I'm sure you have transmitted some of your feelings of guilt about sex and she must also be aware of your husband's infidelity, so she is confused.

Your family would greatly benefit from professional counseling. If you could resolve some of your own conflicts about sex, it might be that you and your husband could still work together to make your relationship with each other fulfilling and rewarding. Your husband's behavior may be a result of your inhibitions and of his inability to reach you for the love and affection he feels he needs. Perhaps his extramarital relations are not related to your own problems, but whatever the cause, this is a family problem and it sounds as if both you and your husband need professional guidance. Your daughter's behavior is not likely to alter until there is a change in her home environment.

Sexual promiscuity in teen-agers is always a sign

Booklet hits top of list

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Edison Co. finds itself publisher of a free "best-seller" in the booklet world.

The pamphlet is "The Electric Decision Maker." It lists the most popular electric appliances and the average cost of running each.

A spokesman says it has gone through two printings totaling 100,000 copies and the firm is thinking about printing more.

"It's been a phenomenal response," he says. "I guess our consumers have wanted something like this."

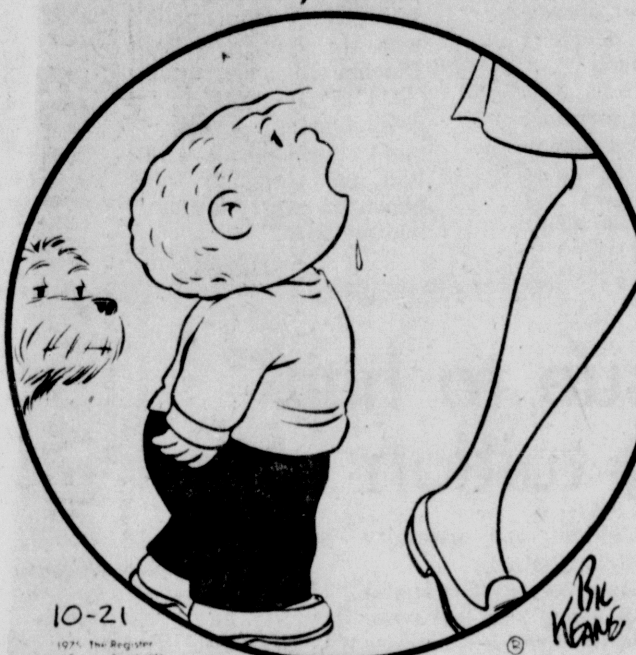

The booklet points out that it offers averages. For example, it says the electricity for a 1,200-watt dishwasher costs 3 cents for an average cycle. It figures the monthly cost of operating a frostless, 15-cubic foot, 440-watt freezer at $6.32.

of deep emotional disturbance. It is the result of a disturbed home from which a teen-ager emerges feeling unloved and then desperately seeks expressions of affection. It may also be an expression of rebellion against the parents. Dr. Rhoda Leland, psychiatrist, has pointed out that most promiscuous teen-agers receive little, if any, pleasure from their sexual activities. Sometimes a teen-ager may be trying desperately to break an attachment to a parent, but more commonly he or she is trying to get from friends the love and acceptance that is needed from parents.

Try to avoid self-criticism and guilt. Instead, take positive action that will lead to change and better communication with your daughter and your husband.

"Mommy, why don't you 'God bless me' when I sneeze 'stead of sayin' 'Cover your mouth'?"

An important part of the popularity of aluminum in and around the house is that it is by nature a low maintenance material. But aluminum products do become dirty and require occasional cleaning.

Because harsh abrasives do more harm than good, the rule of thumb about cleaning aluminum is to use the least strong cleaner that will do the job. The No. 1 choice, therefore, is water and that, water and mild aluminum siding a couple of times a year, water alone will do the job.

Aluminum siding is effectively cleaned with a handled brush, or a hollow-handled brush used for washing.

Because men fighting a drinking problem often have a hard time dealing with people who are not "in the mood."

LONGS DRUGS WHERE EVERYBODY SAVES

BURDETTE WHITE Vanishing wildlife is topic

The endangered wildlife of the United States will be discussed at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the La Verne College La Fetra Hall by Burdette White, lecturer and photographer.

White's appearance at LVC marks the opening of the 17th season of the Audubon Wildlife films and Lectures Series, sponsored each year by members of the Pomona Valley and National Audubon societies and the Biology Department at the college.

White's lecture, "Vanishing American Wildlife" will be accompanied by a color film study of California's Owens River pupfish, Alaska's grizzly bear, the grey wolf, Kirtland's warbler, the whooping crane and many more rare and endangered animals of the wild.

Season tickets are available through the Pomona Valley Audubon Society or the business office at La Verne College at the following costs: family season, $8.50; single season, $5.50; student season, $3; student single admission, $1 and public single admission, $1.75.

PB exec in youth post

Bob Bush, Progress-Bulletin general manager, has been elected second vice president of the California Newspaper Youth Foundation, Inc.

Frank J. O'Neill, publisher of the Redwood City Tribune, was elected president and Allan Howells, formerly with the Progress Bulletin and now circulation manager for the San Rafael Independent Journal, was chosen first vice president.

What's going on around here

RETIRED TEACHER COUNCIL TO MEET — The state council of the California Retired Teachers Assn. will hold an area meeting Wednesday at the Church of the Brethren in La Verne.

Section meetings will start at 9 a.m. and will run through 3:30 p.m. Mrs. Ruth Higgins, state president, will attend the meeting.

Dorothy Garrison, president of the Pomona Valley West division, and Gretchen L. Ulf, president of the valley's East Division, urge local members to attend the conference and become better acquainted with the organization's activities.

Registration for the conference starts at 8:30. Luncheon reservations can be made by telephoning Mrs. James Taylor, at 593-6929.

FIRST AID TRAINING — Anyone wishing to learn more about accident prevention and proper emergency first aid procedures may enroll in the free Red Cross standard first aid and personal safety course that the Claremont Red Cross is offering beginning today from 7:30 to 10 p.m. at the chapter house, 2065 N. Indian Hill Blvd., Claremont.

Jack Lindstrom, a volunteer, is the instructor. A minimum of 14 hours will be required to complete the course. Balance of class dates will be announced at the first meeting.

Preregistration is not necessary. Cost of a first aid book is $2.

CAMELLIA SESSION — James H. McClung will speak on camellias at the San Dimas library community room tonight at 7:30.

Flowering camellias will be exhibited and slides of rare camellias will be shown. A question and answer period will follow McClung's presentation.

PAT NEWTON

Pomonan in charity role

Mrs. Pat Newton of Pomona is chairman for special gifts and professions in the East Zone of Region II for the 1975 United Crusade of Los Angeles County.

These divisions include both special gifts not covered in other divisions and pledges from doctors, dentists, attorneys, the clergy and other professional donors.

Mrs. Newton has been active as a United Crusade worker for many years and 10 years ago was the Pomona Valley area residential chairman. She is president of the Spanish Trails Council Girls Scouts which has a membership of 21,000 girls and 3,500 adults.

Open house at Christian Schools

The Pomona Valley Christian Schools will host its fall open house today at 7:30 p.m.

The program will open in the auditorium with the Elementary Choir singing several songs. This will be followed by visits to the various classrooms. Teachers will explain to parents teaching materials and learning objectives.

The school is located at 845 E. Arrow Highway. Raymond Nevills is the principal.

Casa Colina chef is feted on retirement

Al Leland received recognition from several groups at Casa Colina Hospital upon his retirement last week.

He was presented a framed certificate by the hospital board of directors, a certificate and luggage from the Casa Colina Women's Auxiliary and a painting from staff members.

Leland served as chef of the hospital for rehabilitative medicine, 255 E. Bonita Ave., Pomona, for seven years. He is a member of the American Academy of Chefs and the Les Amis D'escoffier Society.

Spanning a career of three decades, Leland has worked as chef in many European countries, South America and the United States.

Leland also worked as chef on the Hamburg American Lines before joining Casa Colina in 1968.

He plans to continue his career as a teacher and in food management.

Resident of D.B. named to Hope unit

Merci Las Cano of Diamond Bar is president of the newly formed Rick Las Cano Chapter of City of Hope in Duarte.

The chapter will serve as a fund-raising auxiliary to the City of Hope hospital.

Rick Las Cano, a former Pomona resident, died at City of Hope last May 19 of leukemia.

Other chapter officers serving with Mrs. Las Cano are Pete Leyba, first vice president and ways and means chairman.

NORAD radar system turned against drug smugglers

WASHINGTON — The NORAD radar tracking system, which the Air Force established to intercept enemy bombers, has been turned against drug smugglers.

“Operation Startrek,” as the secret spotting system is called, was put into effect by the Customs Service on September 20. Already, the sophisticated radar has picked up a dozen border-hopping planes, which used to have easy air access to the U.S.

Numerous other vehicles, including a motor-cycle, have also been intercepted. More than 20 suspected traffickers have been arrested, and 10,000 pounds of high-grade marijuana has been seized. The total haul is worth well over $2 million.

Just as NORAD would spot an incoming enemy bomber, its radar system can also pick up smaller craft flying without pre-filed flight plans. The radar feeds this information into a computer bank, which notifies Customs agents of the plane’s exact location.

Then, as at wartime fighter bases, the Customs pilots “scramble” and pursue the unknown craft. Three days after “Startrek” began, a Cessna plane with 1,000 pounds of marijuana aboard was tracked down. Just a few days ago, a Piper with 2,600 pounds on board was nailed.

Seizures have been made in Arizona, California and New Mexico. This has required a unique cooperative effort between the Customs Service and Air Force, supported by both federal and local authorities.

On Oct. 3, for instance, the Customs “Startrekkers” alerted New Mexico state police who seized a plane and 1,700 pounds of marijuana.

Under the “Startrek” program, more than 100 planes have been targeted as suspects. Many were lost at first as the new system was put into effect. But in the last few days, the coordination has improved, and the net has been drawing tighter on the smugglers.

Footnote: We held up this story until the Customs Service became convinced that word of “Operation Startrek” had leaked out. Commissioner Vernon Acree confirmed the success of the program. “It has exceeded our highest expectations,” he told us. “At last we have a handle on the problem. It’s a major breakthrough.”

INSIDE THE SUPREME COURT: Chief Justice Warren Burger, with his white mane and black robes is the picture of a patrician. In keeping with his image, he takes warm ginger snaps and lemon tea promptly at 10 o’clock every morning that the court is not in session. The tea is served by Burger’s man servant on an elegant silver tray. Occasionally the Chief Justice likes to sip a little wine. His man servant brings five different wine glasses for Burger to choose from.

—Justice Harry Blackmun surprised court observers a few years ago by voting in favor of abortion in a landmark case. Each year on the anniversary of the controversial case, Blackmun receives red roses, delivered one at a time, as a symbol of protest from an anti-abortion group.

—Justice William O. Douglas, the court’s faltering old grizzly, keeps careful account of two activities: court decisions and sports statistics.

—Court insiders still chuckle about the day a Georgia lawyer used the term “negress” in his courtroom presentation. An amused Justice Thurgood Marshall, himself a black, shot back, “A what?” The uncomfortable lawyer replied: “A female Negro, Mr. Justice.”

Natural Winner

Tom Longboat, an Onondaga Indian from the six Nations Reserve near Brantford, Ontario and world champion long distance runner in 1906, raced a horse over a 12-mile course and won. He also won the 25-mile Boston Marathon in 1907 in record time. In 1912, he set a record for the 15-mile distance that still stands.

Interviewer kidnaped after spaceship show

SAN JOSE (AP) — A radio talk show host was kidnaped after a program about a mysterious spaceship-to-paradise cult, but he escaped two hours later, police say.

Victor Boc, 27, appeared uninjured but "pretty shook up" after the incident Sunday, officers said.

The three-hour program featured a taped interview with the two leaders of the Human Individual Metamorphosis crusade.

Detectives said Sunday night that Boc told them his two kidnapers used some kind of chemical to subdue him about noon in the lobby of the building where radio station KOME is located.

Boc told investigators he escaped at a service station here a few hours later, police said.

No other details of the escape were available.

"Just after the radio program he (Boc) went outside the offices of the radio station and said there were two guys out there saying threatening things to him," said Don Lightborn, a self-proclaimed disciple of the HIM movement who was on the program with Boc.

"Then I went back into the offices and the next thing we knew Victor was gone, and we found his glasses in the hallway," Lightborn said.

There have been reports in the past several weeks that some persons in Western states have left behind families and most worldly belongings to follow the HIM movement, led by a couple calling themselves "The Two."

The couple, identified as Marshall Herff Applewhite, 44, and Bonnie Lu Trusdale Nettles, 48, tell their followers that they will be taken to a better world aboard a UFO if they follow their precepts, and they cite passages from the Bible to support their claims.

Boc first interviewed the UFO cult in August and later tried unsuccessfully to get a list of names of HIM converts.

Overpay to vets hard to recover

WASHINGTON (AP) — Millions of dollars in educational overpayments to veterans under the GI Bill during the last fiscal year may never be recovered, according to a Veterans Administration official.

Veterans collected $446.4 million in benefits they were not entitled to during that period, according to Martin D. Carlin, in charge of a program to get the money back. He said $333.5 million of it has been recovered, but the VA declared $15.1 million uncollectible because the veterans refused to pay, went bankrupt, couldn't be found or died.

The problem dates to the beginning of the college program that began following World War II, but lately the dollar total is increasing sharply, Carlin says. And, he adds, "It hasn't peaked yet."

The situation has been aggravated in recent years, according to the VA, by a congressional decision to give out checks at the first of each month rather than at the end.

Church hits U.S. meddling abroad, neglect at home

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, criticized the Ford Administration Monday for ignoring the problems of the nation's cities while intervening in the affairs of foreign nations.

"We must bring the federal focus home again," Church told the California League of Cities' convention here. "If it is our peculiar passion to make everything right in the world, where better to begin than in our own disordered house?"

"If the President must counsel with important leaders, let him start with the mayors. Who else lives as close to the heartbeat of the people?" Church said.

Church said the federal government had lost the respect of the American people because of widespread corruption.

"Perhaps nothing as massive, distant and faceless as the federal government can ever be loved," the Idaho Democrat said. "But when that government functioned in the realm of the relevant, it earned the respect of the people. When the government was lawful and clean it was neither loathed nor feared."

But Church said, "The respect has been shattered, the trust has been lost, the friendly relationship between the government and the people has been severely strained."

He told his audience, representing 412 California cities, that former President Nixon "proved unfaithful to his duty and untruthful to his countrymen. He was run out of office a step ahead of impeachment." Nixon's vice president, Spiro Agnew, "resigned office within the shadow of the criminal court where he had copped a plea to a 22-count criminal indictment," Church said.

He went on to blast the FBI and the CIA, saying that "our intelligence service hired the Mafia to make a hit on a foreign leader; it dispenses poisons to dispose of troublesome politicians abroad, and it flaunts the law to spy on American citizens in our own land."

He said the Internal Revenue Service had been misused to "harrass citizens who were not suspected of any tax delinquency."

About 6,000 municipal officials are attending the League's 77th annual meeting, which runs through Wednesday.

Team policing, nonviolence stressed

'Not hard-nosed cop'—Chino police chief

JERRY DOYLE

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

Jerry Doyle is an educated cop who believes in team policing and in trying to resolve major crime situations "nonviolently."

Doyle, 39, is Chino's new police chief. He was chosen last week to replace Frank Meehan, who left June 30 to take the same position in Redondo Beach.

A lieutenant and team commander with the Riverside County Sheriff's Department, Doyle will assume his new post Nov. 3.

The new chief, who was commander of the Jurupa team for the sheriff's department, discussed his philosophy and methods in an interview in his Riverside office Monday.

"I'm not a hard-nosed cop," he said, explaining that he would rather bring a person into custody peacefully than "kicking and screaming."

In facing major disturbances Doyle said he does not believe in "charging into" a crowd, "unless there are no other possibilities."

If there is a way to resolve a fracas "nonviolently," Doyle indicated he would take that option. "That means I'm not above talking to anyone."

Doyle worked on problems similar to Chino's in the Mira Loma and Rubidoux areas, which have a large number of Mexican-Americans. "I will face any problem head on," he declared. "I won't duck out on anybody."

In discussing recent gang violence in Chino, Doyle said he supports the work of the Community Action Council and wants to deal "personally" with the group. "It's not something I'd assign to someone else. I will work directly with the community."

As to community problems, he added that he doesn't believe in special privileges for any group. "Everyone has a right to protection if they need it — no matter if they live in the barrio or not." Of course, if arrests are necessary in certain sections of the city they will be made, he added.

Doyle does not speak Spanish, he said, but plans to take a course in the language at Chaffey College. He already has a master's degree in public administration from USC and a bachelor's in vocational education from Cal State Long Beach.

A key part of Doyle's law enforcement philosophy is team policing. He believes in it strongly.

In fact, he sees it as a method of building morale in the police department. "We won't be disparaging Chino. Guys in our department should be proud to be a member."

Team management allows for a voice from all team members, said Doyle. "Naturally there still is accountability by the top manager but decision making... is pushed to the lowest level possible within the organization."

It's obvious, Doyle said, that officers who are involved in policy making are more likely to conform to that policy than those who have it imposed on them by "management."

With a 45-man force in Chino, Doyle may be unable to break it up into teams of officers, covering geographical areas but he indicated the philosophy itself could be utilized.

A vital part of team policing is getting officers out in the community. "They identify closely with the person on the street."

Teaming is excellent for morale, and can be a great crime deterrent, says Doyle. "It's just like a football team. We get everyone pulling for a goal — in this case, stopping crime."

The new chief indicated he was chosen by City Manager Bob Fast and the City Council because he had "fresh ideas."

Doyle, said however, that he plans to enter Chino with a "low profile." He will not make changes for the sake of it, and plans to take a hard look at the police department before changing anything.

Most of all, Doyle wants to operate in an "open atmosphere." The city wants leadership that will lead, he said, and "not tear the department apart."

Says Pomona crime increase 'alarming'

Police chief urges firmer judges, mandatory jail

By JACK BURSON
PB Staff Writer

A sold-out luncheon crowd of the Pomona Coordinating Council Monday heard Pomona Police Chief F.P. Wallick warn that crime rates in Pomona and elsewhere will continue upward as long as there is no certainty that convicted criminals are going to be punished.

Wallick, who joined the Police Department in 1949, and Bob Bush, general manager of the Progress Bulletin, addressed the group at the La Cabana Restaurant, in Pomona.

Bush discussed the more than 2,200 responses the newspaper has received to its recent anti-crime editorial, "Stand Up and Be Counted." He said the deluge of responses indicated to him that Pomona citizens, and many persons living nearby, want a safer place to live, to work in and to shop in.

Wallick said that about 10 per cent of the population is responsible for most of the crime. He said that most of those were left behind economically since World War II and others received no moral training at home.

The police chief brought with him statistics for the first nine months of this year compared to the similar period last year. They indicated that violent crime was up in Pomona 12 per cent and major crime up 9.9 per cent. He said there have been 19 homicides and 236 armed robberies so far. He called it an "alarming" increase over last year.

Wallick said 1,216 persons have been arrested this year with 38 per cent of those arrested for burglary. Forty-nine per cent of the burglary suspects were under 18. Juveniles, he said, made up 40 per cent of the arrests for all major crimes.

Wallick said he favored mandatory sentences for persons convicted of certain crimes and suggested that judges be relieved of their discretion in those cases. He also advised citizens to monitor judges and to re-elect only those who came down hard on convicted criminals.

The chief said that history has shown that as the personal liberty of the individual increased, so did the crime rate and he suggested that in order to reduce criminal activities, "some loss of personal freedom may have to be suffered. He said, however, that he did not favor a "police state," but feared one could develop if citizens become so angry that they demand such an action by their lawmakers.

Bush pointed out that the 2,200 persons who answered the Progress Bulletin editorial had to take the trouble to cut out the editorial, address an envelope and mail it. This, he said, indicates that Pomonans are demanding an all-out war on crime.

Claremont group challenges plans to close two schools

By GEORGE Mac LAREN
PB Staff Writer

The Claremont school board Monday night staved off any discussion about a demographic report submitted by Citizens for Quality Education, which is fighting the closing of Sycamore Elementary School and La Puerta Intermediate School.

When Ken Teske of 2467 N. San Diego Court submitted copies of the report, board president Ernest Taylor said that the board could not "officially receive anything to-night," but Teske could leave them with the board secretary.

Teske said that the report contains new data on district schools, such as figures showing that more than 400 homes are under construction in planning stages north of Base Line Road.

Teske explained that his group is searching the publication budget for hidden items.

He noted that $30,000 budgeted from Public Law 874 is placed under maintenance and operations, but he said that the school district can expect to receive an additional $80,000 this year because of Congressional action.

Teske said that his group is concerned with the quality of education in Claremont, and is asking for full re-consideration of the board's action in June this year to close Sycamore in June 1976 and La Puerta in June 1977.

Teske told the board the report "deserves your rapid consideration. If you don't reconsider the matter, we would like to know why."

When Jim Cooke of 218 W. 12th St. requested permission to ask questions about PL 874 revenue, Taylor answered that the report would go first to District Supt. R. S. Kirken-dall who was absent from the meeting, and that "we will come back with a well-investigated answer."

Later, board member Arthur Steffen asked business manager Charles Abbott if he would be able to furnish PL 874 information at the next board meeting. Abbott said he was looking into it.

"Hopefully we can respond at that time," Steffen said.

The report entitled, "A Critique of the Educational Facilities Utilization Task Force Report and a Re-Examination of the Proposed School Closures in Claremont" charges that the influence of the task force report was "unfortunate because of its lack of analytical methodology and its reliance upon incomplete, often inappropriate, and sometimes inaccurate data."

The report stresses that the task force members explicitly rejected an interpretation that schools ranked at the bottom of their grading list should be closed, and voted unanimously against any school closures.

"New residential construction is, an additional and closely related source of enrollment uncertainty," the report said.

Building boom in Alta Loma prompts call for new school

By CONRAD CASLER
PB Correspondent

Burgeoning Alta Loma home building will force a school bond election by spring, school trustees announced.

Purpose of the election would be to finance a new grade school in the small elementary district's northwest quadrant where most new homes are being built.

Price tag for buying a school site and construction of classrooms is about $1.5 million.

Supt. Floyd Stork said at the Monday night meeting a district census completed this month shows 340 of 450 new homes under construction are located in the district's northwest quadrant north of Banyan Street and west of Carnelian Avenue in foothills.

School enrollment is expected to jump from the present 2,270 to 2,800 within two years.

Trustees will have to approve a bond election by early December if the $1.5 million bond election is to qualify for a March 4 polling date.

Several members of the audience said Alta Loma's building boom and race to keep up with multiplying pupil population could spur a drive to incorporate Alta Loma, Cucamonga and Etiwanda as a city.

As a city, the tri-community incorporation could slow down residential building by city planning ordinances. Now the district which lies entirely in unincorporated areas, must rely on county planners and supervisors in San Bernardino.

Alta Loma Elementary School District now has Jasper School under construction with a completion date of next spring set. But that school will be full once doors open, and another school needed almost immediately to house pupils from new tracts, Stork said. Planning for a 10-room addition to Jasper School already is underway.

Trustees and Stork emphasized the need to enlist homeowner volunteers to help organize a bond election campaign.

Alta Loma district was formed in 1947 with 181 pupils and grew slowly until the early 1960s building boom. In the past 10 years, pupils almost have tripled from 813 to the 1975-76 census of 2,270.

Students attend half-day sessions because of overcrowding.

A housing potential unveiled at Monday's board meeting showed 2,721 homes now in the district and 450 under construction with a potential of 39,312. This could mean a student potential of 35,000 grade school pupils in the future, Stork said.

In other action board members approved a student activities budget for Alta Loma Junior High School but asked Stork to advise against candy sales as fund raising projects in the future.

"We have learned a lot about sugar and tooth decay recently and this (candy sales) may not be in the best interest of the students," board President Nancy Kettle said.

3 traffic mishaps leave 3 uninjured

Three motorists escaped serious injury Monday in separate one-car traffic accidents in Pomona.

C. C. Suggs' truck was a total loss after it crashed into a block wall and overturned in the front yard at 1244 N. San Antonio Ave. Monday night.

Police said Suggs, 30, of 2450 Alder St., was southbound at high speed when he had to swerve to avoid a slower moving car north of Lincoln Avenue. His vehicle crossed the center divider, jumped the east curb and slammed into the wall. Suggs was taken to Pomona Valley Community Hospital, but declined treatment.

Early Monday morning, Raymond C. Ponce, 40, of 848 E. Gladstone St., La Verne, suffered a cut lip when his car ran into a guard rail protecting a railroad crossing signal on Garey Avenue near Poplar Street. Ponce declined treatment of the injury.

And Monday afternoon, Patricia Ann Busby, 33, Los Angeles, escaped injury when her car snapped off a four by four inch sign post as she was leaving a parking lot at Garey and Holt avenues.

ALLAN G. SMITH

Smith will retire from Chaffey post

By PHYLLIS CANNON
PB Staff Writer

Allan G. Smith, superintendent of the Chaffey Union High School District since 1958, has resigned for retirement purposes effective the end of this school year.

His resignation was accepted "with deepest regret" by the school board Monday night.

With his leaving, Smith will end a 29-year career in education in the Chaffey district. He was hired as an English teacher and served as boys physical education instructor, dean of boys, director of boys athletics and assistant superintendent of Chaffey High and Chaffey College (when they occupied the same campus) before being named superintendent.

"I assure you I take no joy in this letter of resignation," said Chaffey school board president G. A. Chalfant. "I find it very difficult to accept with any kind of grace."

Later in the meeting, Chalfant said that in comparing public school superintendents, "I've always felt we had the No. 1 man in the state" and, he added, "It will be a very difficult task to fill that pair of shoes."

Board member John Schnepf said he considered "Al Smith close to being indispensable."

"I remember him (Smith) as my physical education instructor," said board member Jack Carnine. "He has brought dignity and poise to this district. He has shown a tremendous degree of professionalism."

Martha Chapman, also a board member, cited Smith's long career in the district and said that "Chaffey indeed has been privileged to have had Al Smith."

Smith, in thanking the board for its praise, said he had written the letter of resignation with considerable mixed emotions.

He credited district employees and citizen support with making Chaffey an excellent district.

Five charges filed in slaying of policeman

Steven and Jerry Miller, charged with the slayings of Ontario Police Officer and Richard Hyche and a Red Bluff man, will appear for preliminary hearings in West Valley Municipal Court on Oct. 30.

In a five-count complaint, the Miller brothers are accused of slaying Edwin Huntsman, 31, of Red Bluff last Tuesday night in an attempted robbery of Theodore Kirts, 27 of Ward, Colo.

In that incident Kirts allegedly wrestled a rifle away from the elder Miller during an attempted robbery and shot and killed Huntsman.

Jerry Miller was later arrested by Upland police and charged with murder — under a California law that holds an accomplice in a felony crime responsible for his partner's death.

Steven Miller was located Wednesday afternoon by police officers outside an apartment complex at 916 Deodor St. in Ontario. As officers moved in to arrest Miller, the suspect fired at Officer Hyche and Sgt. John Maddux. Hyche died later of gunshot wounds.

Miller after barricading himself for more than two hours inside the apartment finally surrendered and was taken into custody for the murder of huntsman, the attempted robbery, and the slaying of Officer Hyche. He was also charged with assault with a deadly weapon on other police officers.

Specifically, both Miller brothers are accused of the murder of Huntsman, the attempted robbery of Kirts, and the burglary of Kirts' apartment. The elder Miller brother is also accused of murdering Officer Hyche and assault with a deadly weapon on police officers.

The charges against Steven Miller carry with them a "special circumstance allegation" that alleges the defendant intentionally killed Officer Hyche with the knowledge that he was a police officer engaged in the performance of his duty.

Pomona, California ■ Tuesday, October 21, 1975

Cyclists' helmets: a shared concern

A nationwide effort is underway to repeal laws that require motorcyclists to wear helmets when they ride on public streets and roads, reports the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety.

The effort is spearheaded primarily by motorcyclists and motorcyclist organizations concerned about their alleged loss of constitutional rights. Those fighting helmet laws also claim that helmets which meet the federal standard are actually a hazard.

All the states except California, Illinois and Utah have laws that comply with the Department of Transportation's standards regarding motorcycle safety. For several years, motorcyclists have sought repeal of mandatory helmet laws by concentrating efforts in individual state legislatures, and 14 states currently have such bills under consideration.

Repeal efforts have been thwarted, however, mainly because of the possibility of a state's losing all federal highway safety funds and 10 per cent of federal highway construction funds. Thus efforts are now shifting to the national level in an attempt to remove the threat of federal penalties against states repealing helmet laws. Five such bills are now pending in Congress.

To the claim that helmets themselves cause accidents and injuries, the National Highway Traffic Administration replies that it knows of no factual data to support this contention. On the contrary, a 1974 analysis comparing helmet efficiency in Michigan (which has a helmet law) and Illinois (which does not have a helmet law) found that motorcycle crashes in Illinois resulted in "almost three times more serious or fatal head injury than similar accidents in Michigan."

But what about the argument of motorcyclists that it's nobody's business but their own if they want to risk having their skulls smashed?

Both the validity and the constitutionality of helmet laws are well established, says the Insurance Institute. It quotes the 1972 opinion of the Federal District Court for Massachusetts upholding that state's law (subsequently affirmed by the U.S. Supreme Court):

"While we agree with plaintiff that the act's only realistic purpose is the prevention of head injuries incurred in motorcycle mishaps, we cannot agree that the consequences of such injuries are limited to the individual who sustains the injury. . . . The public has an interest in minimizing the resources directly involved.

"From the moment of the injury, society picks the person up off the highway; delivers him to a municipal hospital and municipal doctors; provides him with unemployment compensation if, after recovery, he cannot replace his lost job, and, if the injury causes permanent disability, may assume the responsibility for his and his family's subsistence.

"We do not understand a state of mind that permits plaintiff to think that only he himself is concerned."

All in the family

The old American dream of starting a business that will remain in family hands forever has gone the way of the buffalo. According to the U.S. Department of Commerce, few family businesses survive into the third generation.

One reason seems to be that fewer sons are willing to follow in the footsteps of their fathers. Another, much more important one, is that mass production, marketing and distribution today usually require heavy injections of outside capital to make expansion possible.

Nevertheless, some of America's best-known and most successful companies are still thriving in private hands.

For example, White Rock sodas, which have graced the nation's tables for nearly a century, have maintained their strong market position without having to raise equity capital by going public. Legions of readers of World Book Encyclopedia probably don't know that its publisher is the private company of Field Enterprises.

And there are firms like L. B. Foster, largest rail and highway construction marketers in the Western Hemisphere; Peter Frasse, a steel service center which is one of America's oldest companies, and the Anderson Co. of Gary, Ind., which supplies 70 per cent of the nation's windshield wiper blades.

Teach Christianity

Dear Editor:

In the issue of Wednesday, Oct. 15th, I find the first constructive suggestion by any one, at least along the lines as I see it! And that is in an article by our mayor! I commend him for his remarks, especially the last part starting, "first the community needs, etc. . . ." But I feel the last part gets to the heart of the whole problem. Where he says, "until the parents can teach their children the meaning of respect. . . until they begin taking their children to church. . . until the parents start taking the responsibility of rearing their children by accepting the obligation that has been entrusted to them then we concerned citizens will have to shoulder that responsibility."

As a retired school teacher I have found that where there is cooperation in the home with the school there is no problem of behavior on the part of children.

Another thought has been in my mind for some time, that is, Are we really a Christian nation? Some how I feel that our leaders fail to remind us that we are and that all people (children and adults) need to be reminded of it once in a while.

All of which makes me wonder some about this new fad (so I call it) of "woman's lib". Are these women going out into society and neglecting their family, or have they no family and are looking for something to do? Which brings me to remark what I feel very strongly IF OUR CHILDREN ARE BROUGHT UP PROPERLY IN THE HOME we would have less crime!

Some say there is nothing for them, the children to do after school. There is the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. There are youth camps that our very famous coach (John Wooden) attends every summer, and other organizations that will help.

But enough for I feel you get the point.

Let's teach Christianity and its meaning to our children. — H.L.P.

All-out emergency

Dear Editor:

Just who the hell do you think you're kidding? You bleat and moan about crime in Pomona. I looked out the window just now. A car shot by my house at well above 50 mph. The speed limit is 35. I stopped for a red light last night. While I was sitting there two motorcycles came up from behind me. They calmly ran the light and sped off. No one bothered them. Or does anyone bother a neighbor of mine who has had a car parked in front of his house for months without proper license tabs. Abandoned shopping carts are everywhere. The wonderful neighbors I have buy at the local supermarket, wheel their purchase home in a shopping cart which they then abandon, usually in someone else's front yard.

I have heard Pomona teachers admit they have tolerated violations not only of school rules but of state laws and have done nothing. It doesn't take an expert to spot violations of building and health codes almost everywhere. Near me are some virtual slums. The reason? They are owned by absentee and managed for a fee. The "management firms" could care less about what the neighborhood thinks about the tenants. After all, aren't they showing a profit. Making a buck. I used to try to do tax work. I quit. It made me sick at my stomach to do the things I had to do to stay in business.

Then you tell your young people: "Now you can safely disobey this law because no one will bother you. But don't disobey this one." What would you do if you were a "young person"? Of course. Just what they do. Any mother or father can tell you either you have discipline or you haven't. You can't be selective, or permissive one time and over-severe the next.

The situation is no longer one of bad management that has to be corrected. It is an all-out emergency. Crime is out of control. After it has been brought back into control the time will then come to discuss better education and better penology. For now the proper topic is how to combat the emergency.

I have a right to complain. I like Pomona. I came here to live ten years ago and put all my savings in some property, which I have watched steadily decline in value. It probably now wouldn't bring what I paid for it. Not because it isn't worth it but because of the decline of the neighborhood. Ten years of my life and all my savings down the drain.

I think someone should make a local study. How many crimes actually are committed in Pomona during a given period? What are they? How many offenders are caught? Are they tried? What are the verdicts? We hear a lot about individual cases but actually what is the situation? — Philip A. Hastings
Pomona

Israel conquests

Dear Editor:

The respondent to my letter of Sept. 30 did not take up the issue of peace through justice in his letter of Oct. 13; but he reverted back to a history starting in 1948. What is that history?

The Partition of Palestine which was recommended by the UN, Nov. 29, 1947, was not acceptable to either side. The Jewish Agency which had earlier pressed for all of Palestine (though the population was 2/3 Arab) accepted partition verbally, for it gave a ground for legitimacy to a state from which to move out and claim more. Already, their military arm, the Haganah, had adopted its secret Plan Dalet, a scheme to seize all of Palestine. One soon saw its working out.

After Partition was approved by the UN, there were strong Palestinian protests — most of them peaceful, but some vicious things were done which one can only condemn. At the same time, the Zionist Irgun and Haganah undertook a program of terrorism which vastly overshadowed anything the Arabs did. Next came the ouster of peaceful Arabs, through threat, from areas of mixed population. This began in Jerusalem and Haifa on Dec. 28, 1947. That morning in Jerusalem, Helen Christaki, a cook at the American School of Oriental Research, received at her home a note from the Haganah which said: "Move out in 24 hrs. or you will be shot." She was the widowed mother of five (ages 3 to 13), and Millar Burrows moved them into the basement of the American School. I knew others who suffered similarly.

The next stage was to expell through threat whole blocks of peaceful people living near Jewish areas. This began in February, 1948. Next whole villages were sent in panic flight through the massacre of the friendly village of Deir Yassin, the night of April 9/10. Finally, large population centers were subject to strong military attacks, so that by May 14, when the state of Israel was proclaimed, Israel had been made larger and nearly Arab free. The Arab armies which came in after this frustrated the operation of Plan Dalet by delaying Israel's seizure of all Palestine (or rather, 300% of Palestine) until 1967.

After 1948, the Arabs were willing to discuss peace with Israel on the basis of the 1947 Partition Plan, but then Israel insisted upon retaining her conquests and in keeping most Palestinians in exile. Since 1967, the Arabs have been willing to discuss peace with Israel within her pre-Six-Day-War boundaries, with justice being done the Palestinians. However, pieces of Syria, Jordan, and Egypt, and the continued exclusion of the Palestinians are more dear to the heart of most Israelis than peace. There have always been good people in Israel who protest the wrongs, but their pleas still go unheeded. — William H. Brownlee, Claremont.

Officers dismissed

Dear Editor:

This is going to be one of the letters which won't be printed but so be it. IT SHOULD be, however.

At a time when THE PROGRESS BULLETIN has led in putting an emphasis on the crime picture in Pomona and when each and every person feels the need for adequate police protection, the Police Department is dismissing officers/detectives.

Those dismissed, or under consideration for dismissal haven't suddenly become incompetent fools. Quite to the contrary — they're men who know the crime picture to the last detail and who, day and night, devote all of their energies to protect and help the citizens of the City of Pomona. They CARE. They cannot be replaced by men of lesser experience and have the Department function at top efficiency.

The Police Department has a right to dismiss officers who are guilty of disciplinary infractions and those who for one reason or another are misfits. However, when men have given over twenty years of satisfactory service are suddenly subject to dismissal there's something wrong.

It is tragic that the Police Department must function under the direction of the City Council which obviously hasn't knowledge of the needs of the Department. As has been shown nationwide the entrance of politics into any police department downgrades the status of that department.

The citizens of Pomona expect immediate response to any summons for an officer for whatever reason. It is given them. The solving of crimes goes on day by day in the Detective Bureau where highly dedicated men tenaciously sift and sort information in the hope that criminals will be apprehended and Pomona made safer.

Can't the Police Department be freed from the whims of City politics and be allowed to function as seems best for the entire Department? Must experienced officers be dismissed at a time when each man and his knowledge is so desperately needed by the City?

Why don't you interview some of the individual officers and detectives and let them express the ways in which the citizens of Pomona can help the Police Department. Perhaps you could acquaint the citizens with the duties of the various officers. Many citizens see and meet officers only when trouble exists. These citizens lose sight of the fact that the officers in units and those on foot are there to help each and every one of us whether we need protection or just some human kindness.

The people of Pomona need to know the relationship between the City Council and the Police Department as well as the internal situations which can erode the solidarity of our fine Department. — S. L. Smith, Pomona

Mistaken belief

Dear Editor:

There was an interesting paradox in last Monday's City Council meeting. The council, apparently realizing that the cost of almost everything is going up, granted a rate increase to Cole-Sheaffer ambulance service. At the same meeting the council members, with one exception, continued in their refusal to consider a pay increase for Pomona city employees. Perhaps the city council is operating under the mistaken belief that groceries, gasoline, housing, and, heaven forbid, ambulance services, cost the city employees less than the same services cost the rest of Pomona's citizens. — C.M. McAlister Pomona

Tougher laws

Dear Editor:

I manage an apartment court and most of the people are senior citizens. They are afraid to go to town to pay their bills or shop. One old man had a couple come in and rob him of $350. They let the couple out on probation.

My husband and I were robbed at the Montclair Plaza. They took his billfold. A friend of ours had her purse snatched. Another one was knocked down, and hurt and had her purse stolen.

Everyone I talk to wants to move to some place where it's safe. Please see if the people responsible can't start to do something. We need tougher laws very badly. — Mrs. J.N.B., Pomona

Afraid all the time

Dear Editor:

It's about time someone did something about crime. I am 80 years old and afraid all the time. I have lived in Pomona 67 years.

When I was in my teens I walked many times from Third and Gordon to south Pomona at 10 p.m. There was absolutely no danger. Not many houses either. Now I can't go out in my yard. Good luck to you. — Mrs. G.A., Pomona

Doc Peirsol Just in jest

There is nothing like television to make anyone 65 years of age or older realize the joys he missed as a child. Perhaps, more specifically, I should say, nothing like television commercials. Because they were non-existent in the days of my youth, I was denied an opportunity to play the martyr and stoically withstand the ravages of such an exotic sounding disease as "Problem Dandruff."

I never knew what it was to enjoy the exquisite "Heartbreak of Psoriasis." And even infinitely worse, I had to put up with puberty pimples without the aid of an "8-hour Pimple Fighter." — Oh sure! We had wonder cures for the chronic ills of childhood in those days, too. But I ask you! Where was there any pleasure, any feeling of importance, when one was forced to thwart the Grim Reaper with Sulfer and Molasses, an application of ill-smelling Sheep Dip, or liberal doses of Vermifuge?

It simply had to happen! My faith in the Ancient and Honorable Order of Newspaper Advertising Men would have been sadly shattered if, sooner or later, one of the tribe hadn't heard the KNOCK-KNOCK of opportunity. But I am happy to report my fears were groundless.

No sooner had that KNOCK-KNOCK sounded than one of our enterprising local Admen shouted: "WHO'S THERE?"

And when that happened, the answer came loud and clear — "Bicentennial!"

Immediately our Adman, as the old saying goes, seen his duty and he done it. Of course, the fact that he never had been much good at spelling helped a lot. Suddenly the GREAT IDEA dawned! Its time had definitely come. In fact, maybe it was a bit overdue. But no matter! What could be more appropriate than to cash in on this country's glorious 200 year past and announce a BUY Centennial Sale?

Paul Harvey Civil servants or 'masters'

Public employees may soon be so unpopular with the people that politicians will win votes by campaigning against them. What with civil service plus collective bargaining, our civil "servants" are becoming our "masters."

When we, the people, get fed up with carrying all these high-salaried, high-pensioned public employees around, then the politicians will. Few politicians have ever dared campaign against government workers because government workers represent too many votes.

That's changing. In Massachusetts, State Rep. Barney Frank says, "I plan to make public employees the number one issue in my next re-election campaign. I don't think there is any bigger issue."

Our government is supposed to be "of and by the people," but if you think you have any voice in running it, just try to get one of those civil servants fired — or even demoted.

Government workers are now so entrenched with their civil service seniority system plus their unions that a city going bankrupt is still unable to fire them.

New York City, unable to cover its early September welfare checks, had to borrow money. The city had to borrow $100 million from the municipal employees union!

Dr. William Goldman spent 18 months as Massachusetts commissioner of mental health. His department has 17,000 employees, all but two of them with guaranteed job security and other forms of protection provided by the state's civil service system.

Goldman says the "system is in no way related to merit." For example, vacancies must be filled from names submitted by the state's personnel office — regardless of qualifications.

Imagine trying to staff a medical facility with clinicians and having to take whatever the politicians send you. The system guarantees mediocrity or worse. The opportunity for bribes, payoffs and exam-fixing is almost limitless.

Even top administrators must come off that list. And nobody can be fired. So today in that largest department in that state's government there are more employees than patients. In federal government, public officials and personnel are similarly entrenched.

President Ford is noting in some of his campaigning that there are 100,000 federal workers whose sole responsibility is the writing, reviewing and enforcing of some type of business regulation. There are 100,000 people whose only job is to tell you how to do your job.

California's Gov. Edmund Brown Jr., also, is trying to fire payrollers. Heretofore politicians have been disinclined to take on the bureaucracy with anything more than token oratory.

But civil service plus unionization of government workers has tended to make them so callous, so inefficient and so costly that overtaxed Americans who once threw out the redcoats are about to start throwing out the servants who serve mostly themselves.

Dr. Miller

Teaching a cat to use a door

DEAR DR. MILLER: You mentioned a swinging door, the small kind you put in a big door or in a wall to allow an outside cat to get inside (or should I say an inside cat to get outside?). Anyway, I put one in our door and it's been a total flop so far. Benjamin stares at the door on occasion, but shows no desire to go through it. Have I gone to all this trouble for nothing, or is there a way? — L.D.

DEAR L.D.: To clarify, such a door is only appropriate for an outdoor cat which must—according to the cat or its owner—continue to go outside. Step One is to leave the door open and put some appropriate lure on the outside. (That would be the side where the cat isn't.) Once the cat has learned to go through the open door a few times, it can be propped half open so the cat can see out but must nudge its way through to get out. After a few such sessions, the cat should readily push through the swinging door when it want to reach the outside side. You'll note felines frequently don't want to be on the opposite side of a door, no matter which side they are currently on...

DEAR DR. MILLER: How often do you really have to clip a dog's nails? Friends of mine (they all have dogs) don't agree on this at all. — E.M.

DEAR E.M.: Not surprising. Nail-nipping needs to vary, depending primarily on the amount of exercise the dog gets and the kind of walking surface used while getting it. The city slicker-concrete canine type who pounds the pavement for his exercise will keep his nails worn to a nub. The dew claws, if any, would be the only nails needing trimming, and then perhaps once a year or less. On the other hand, the small house dog who wanders from wall-to-wall carpeting to a grassy backyard only when it's absolutely essential and rarely puts a paw on a hard surface, should be pedicured perhaps every couple of months. Overly long nails often become painfully snagged and fractured. They make walking difficult and noisy, especially on a hard surface. These long nails definitely contribute to foot and leg problems. Ideally, your dog's nails should be short and kept that way. Preventing paw problems via the neat nail route is one of the many ways to keep your canine healthier longer.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Our parakeets are still out on the porch. We've made half of it into an aviary for them. You recommended before a draft-proof, dry corner for them and we've provided that. Now our question is, can we leave them out there? For how long? They seem really to be happy out there now, and haven't been bothered by cold nights one bit. — L.R.

DEAR L.R.: In an outside aviary where they've had a chance to acclimate to the changing seasons as they gradually occur, your "healthy" birds can take a surprising amount of cold weather provided they are dry and not exposed to drafts. Parakeets have been known to survive surprisingly rigorous winter weather. Still, parakeets are desert birds and it's illogical to test their endurance to the limit. In good quarters, as long as your birds are obviously enjoying themselves, it's not unreasonable to leave them out. They should not be required to test their endurance and survival capabilities against inclement weather, however. In many areas of the country it would be prudent to pack parakeets—prior to winter storms—safely away inside.

Ann Landers

Woman resents second baby

Dear Ann Landers: I am 30 years of age, have one child, 18 months old, and am expecting another in December. I really do want another baby, but I did not want to have it so close to the first one.

I am smoldering with resentment against my husband because he was not very considerate about my wishes in this matter. I recall very clearly the night he made me pregnant. I argued with him about it for an hour, but he just kept talking until he got his way.

I feel lousy most of the time, much worse than when I was pregnant with the first baby. I'm sure my resentment toward my husband's selfishness is having a bad physical effect on me. Since it's the woman who must carry and deliver the child, shouldn't it be her decision when to become pregnant? The more I think of what happened to me the more furious (and sicker) I get.

I'm sure other women have gone through this same thing. How do they get over their anger? When will it happen? Please help me. — Feeling Rotten In Denver

Dear Denver: Of course other women have found themselves in the same condition under similar circumstances. Thousands of 'em. Maybe millions.

They get over their anger the moment the new baby is placed in their arms and they have a second child to love.

P.S. Fortunately, Mother Nature designed short memories for feelings like yours. The alternatives would be about 500,000 dead husbands annually.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 17-year-old girl who just read your reply to "Seen Plenty." I agree with you that parents can be too permissive with young, sexy daughters, but why didn't you say something to parents of teen-age boys? I've "Seen Plenty" of them around and they could sure use some talking to.

Some guys in this town walk around with their jeans so low on their hips it's a disgrace — belly-buttons showing, no shirts, also naked." I've seen guys walking the streets in bikinis no bigger than a diaper for a three-month-old baby. They are more like loincloths than bathing trunks.

My mother knows where I am and who I'm with every minute of my life. I also have to honor a curfew or get grounded. But my 16-year-old brother is never asked a single question — like, "What were you doing until 2 o'clock this morning?"

I'm not criticizing you for suggesting that girls be kept in line, but I'm plenty bugged because you said nothing about boys. It's a real pleasure to spend an evening with a guy who has been taught to respect a girl and not have to fight him off every ten minutes or argue with him about keeping what belongs to me in the first place. Please be fair, Ann. — You Let Us Down In Riverside

Dear L.D.: Thanks for hauling me up short. I had it coming. Nothing I can say could be half as effective as your letter. I hope the parents out there give it the thought it deserves.

CONFIDENTIAL To What's With Him?: Never mind HIM. What's with you that you'd waste five years with a three-time loser who lives with his mother and needs to spend three evenings a week in a bar "solving life's problems" — alone?

Forming cholesterol varies

DEAR DR. LAMB — What is the cause of cholesterol in one's system? I understand that it comes from fatty acids in animal fats, butter, nuts, etc., but I wonder why some people have high cholesterol levels and others don't although each are on similar diets.

My cholesterol level is 343, and my physician has me on a diet and tells me the level shouldn't be over 250 at the most. I'm 58, male, in good health, no heart attacks, no high blood pressure. Will appreciate some help.

DEAR RADER — Cholesterol is only an animal product. I keep getting letters asking about it being in nuts. It is not. The rub is that excess fat in the diet, particularly saturated fat found in animal fat, stimulates the liver to form increased amounts of cholesterol. Excess calories may do the same thing.

Your doctor is right to put you on a diet. It may help lower your cholesterol level, and it should be lowered.

Cholesterol is formed chiefly by the liver. The liver acts in many ways as a regulator of blood cholesterol. In some people with certain inherited characteristics the liver tends to form more cholesterol, even if the person is skinny and on a good diet. In other persons, even when obese, the liver seems not to form so much cholesterol. This may be a genetic factor, just as diabetes can be.

The cholesterol in your blood really comes from two sources, that manufactured by your own body, chiefly in the liver, and that absorbed in your food. Only a few foods are really high in cholesterol. Chief among these are the egg yolk and organ meats, particularly brains.

If you want more information on the foods and diet to control cholesterol, write to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Send 50 cents, a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope, and ask for The Health Letter number 1-3, Diet Preventing Atherosclerosis.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I don't have too big a problem, but would like some information. My hair stops growing after a while and doesn't get very long. I would like to know if there's some way to stimulate hair to make it grow.

DEAR READER — Contrary to some overly enthusiastic advertisement, there is absolutely no way to stimulate hair to grow where you want it to. That is why a number of people have turned to hair transplants. If a treatment were available that caused hair to grow successfully, it would have been used.

There are some interesting experimental projects using hormones to stimulate hair follicles, but that is about it.

Your hair is like an evergreen tree, and some hair is lost constantly while new hair is growing. The cycle and other characteristics (some inherited) control the length of your hair. Obviously a slow-growing hair with a short life span won't get too long.

You can correct some medical problems that are associated with falling hair. Women sometimes have this problem after pregnancy, but it is temporary. You can also help your hair by not working it over with beauty aids or severe types of hair styles. Anything that pulls and keeps the hair under tension increases the likelihood of losing hair. Some individuals do not tolerate repeated hair coloring using hydrogen peroxide in the process, and find that when they stop using these their hair improves.

Other than these minor points most of the factors that deal with hair are inherited or, rarely, related to hormone function.

What people say

"A fish is not the easiest animal to relate to. Communication is all but impossible for us and so are projection and comprehension... Because they are so distant, so unapproachable, we could overlook the perfect natural genius of their survival."

—Naturalist Roger Caras, in his new book, "Sockeye, The Life of a Pacific Salmon."

"If we are successful, really successful in working out (a new SALT) treaty, it would be of the greatest importance not only for you and for us but for all to come for dozens and dozens of years."

—Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev, discussing the potential of a new SALT treaty with visiting American astronauts.

Jacoby's bridge

Short club has its place

By Oswald & James Jacoby

When you use the short club properly there are several rules to follow. The first one is that you do not bid it when your distribution is anything except 4-4-3-2 or 4-3-3-3. The second is that you do not bid it when you only hold two clubs. The third is that you do not bid it when you hold four diamonds to an honor.

Another name for the short club is the junior notrump since in general it is bid when you have notrump distribution and are too weak to open one notrump.

In general when you open a club with 4-3-3-3 distribution and your partner does not bid your suit you should rebid one notrump and cancel your four-card major. Thus, South rebid one notrump, not one spade.

This time it is all rather unimportant. North-South would reach three notrump on any bidding system and make an overtrick.

Ask the Jacobys

A Mississippi reader wants to know what you should respond to partner's forcing two-spade bid when you hold:

▲KJ4♥A9765♦K32▲74.

We recommend a mere raise to three spades to set the suit. Later on you plan to take further action to show that you really have a tremendous hand opposite a forcing bid.

Ohio Players set for Forum

The Ohio Players will headline a concert Friday night at the Forum in Inglewood.

Appearing with the seven-piece musical aggregation will be guests The Main Ingredient and Buddy Miles.

The Ohio Players, all natives of Dayton, Ohio, launched their career by pooling $400 from the group's resources to make an album in a Tennessee recording studio. The 1971 album, "Pain," hit the pop charts by storm. Two other albums were later produced.

In 1974, Mercury Records produced the album

"Skin Tight," and followed it with another record-breaker titled "Fire!" The Ohio Players have subsequently picked up a half dozen gold records and were named the progressive soul band in both 1974 and 1975.

The Main Ingredient represents New York City. Members Lou Simmons and Cuba Gooding are native New Yorkers and Carl Thompson hails from Petersburg, Va., growing up in Manhattan.

The trio made history in 1973 when it opened the "Soul at the Center" series at the Philharmonic Hall in New York. They've appeared on all the major network variety shows, toured the United States with Aretha Franklin, and were included in a sellout performance in Carnegie Hall with Stevie Wonder and several standing room only appearances in Madison Square Garden's Felt Auditorium with Eddie Kendricks.

Buddy Miles, solo vocalist and pop music favorite, will also be on the evening bill. His latest album "More Miles Per Gallon" includes the hit song "Last Words of Love," with Stevie Wonder accompanying Miles.

Performance starts at 7:30 p.m. Tickets from $5.75 to $7.75 are on sale at the Forum box office and all Mutual and Ticketron outlets.

SHADOW PLAY — Laurence Luckinbill, left, David Huffman and Cynthia Harris are thrust together by love and personal crisis in Michael Cristoforo's "The Shadow Box," slated for its world premiere Oct. 30 at the Forum of the Los Angeles Music Center. The drama will play in repertory with William Gillette's farce, "Too Much Johnson," using the same group of actors through Dec. 21.

Jerusalem Symphony to perform at S.M.

The Jerusalem Symphony Orchestra will make its first Southland appearance Sunday at 2:30 p.m. in the Santa Monica Civic Auditorium under the auspices of the Americanist Federation.

Currently on its first tour of North America under the management of Paragon International Presentations, the orchestra will be conducted by Lukas Foss, musical adviser and principal conductor of the orchestra. The concert includes Symphony for Orchestra by Salomon Rossi (arranged by Foss), "Meditation on a Drama" by Tzvi Avni, Symphony No. 2 ("Age of Anxiety") by Leonard Bernstein and Symphony No. 4 by Gustav Mahler.

Tickets are on sale at the auditorium box office, all Ticketron outlets or by mail to the American Zionist Federation, 6505 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles 90048. Prices are $6.50 and $8.50. If ordered through the Federation, tickets are tax deductible.

Want to be on TV?

Nets need audiences

NEW YORK (AP) — Want to be on the laugh track in "Barney Miller" or tell the neighbors it's your "ooh" they heard on "Gambit"? No problem. Networks need and welcome live audiences for 39 shows now on the air.

And they say you'll find it easy in most cases to get free tickets for the 17 daytime game shows and 22 nighttime situation comedies or variety shows currently appearing on CBS, NBC and ABC.

But you'll have to visit Los Angeles to see most of them personally.

Only two now come from New York, both on ABC. They're the "10,000 Pyramid," an easy ticket, and Howard Cosell's live variety show, which ABC calls a "hot-ticket" program, meaning ducats are scarce.

In Los Angeles, CBS has 12 nighttime programs and five daytime game shows taped before live audiences. In those respective categories, the count at NBC is five and six, while it's four and five at ABC.

Aside from the fans who write in for tickets to their favorite shows, it's getting tougher for networks to find audiences for the programs from among residents of Los Angeles and tourists visiting there.

Network officials say it's no harder than in past years. The degree of difficulty still varies according to the time of year, the hour a show is taped and whether the program is wellknown to viewers.

An easy grab for thieves

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Police were looking for two young men who walked into the Little America-Westgate Hotel and walked out with a $10,000 antique clock.

A hotel official said that the two came in, took an elevator to the second floor, picked up the 100-pound clock and then left down a stairway.

Police said several hotel employees apparently saw the two thieves, but made no attempt to stop them.

Memberships in the club, $5 annually, are sold at each meeting.

Information can be obtained from Ray Hubbell at 622-6722.

As a general rule, network ticket-dispensers say the more popular the nighttime show, the greater the over-the-counter ticket demand.

As might be expected, there's little difficulty getting tickets for new nighttime programs which haven't hit the air yet or only have been on TV for a week or two.

Network officials say that these usually are the hardest shows for which to drum up an audience. The drumming is done in a variety of ways — at the networks' ticket offices, through tickets supplied to hotels and by inviting area civic groups to the shows.

CBS and ABC each say that in a pinch they also send ushers bearing tickets to places like the Farmer's Market or the Hollywood Bowl in hope of finding folks interested in joining the studio audience.

NBC says its pages aren't dispatched on such chores, but when there's a possible audience shortage it hires independent ticket-dispensers to go forth and pull in a crowd or two.

The ticket-hawking also occasionally is done for daytime game shows, most of which are easy to get into because they're on the air five days a week and often tape three or more shows a day.

However, Joe DiSante, ABC's guest relations manager in Los Angeles, says "Let's Make a Deal" is so popular no over-the-counter tickets can be had for it. You have to write for them weeks in advance.

When I was a part-time NBC page here back in 1961 — an era when many game and variety shows came from Fun City — the audiences always were remarkably well-behaved and the "crazies" few and far between.

Network officials in Los Angeles say that still is the case and, as in the past, the occasional audience member who disrupts a show is asked to pipe down or be "eighty-sixed" — ejected by a guard.

Prep sports back on tube

A recent announcement from the CIF Southern Section office brought some good news to local prep fans.

The CIF announced that the award-winning "Prep Sports World" TV show will be returning to KNBC (Channel 4). Premier telecast will be this Saturday at 12 noon, as KNBC will be airing a replay of the South Hills-Glendora Sierra League football clash. That game will be played Friday night at Citrus College.

Also on tap for "Prep Sports World" this fall is another football contest (San Clemente vs. University) on Nov. 15 and the Southern Section Girls' Volleyball Championship on Nov. 29.

Shows are also slated for Nov. 1, Dec. 6 and Dec. 28 with the subject matter of those telecasts still to be announced.

The notion of Southern California prep sports coverage on TV is certainly a good one, and "Prep Sports World" has come up with some outstanding telecasts in its two years on the air.

Unfortunately, the quality of these telecasts varies widely. This has been due in part to some rather uninformed announcers being assigned to the myriad of sporting events that have appeared on "Prep Sports World", coupled with some uninspired camera work (the events always look like they are shot with one camera situated at the worst possible angle).

However, this writer's biggest complaint about the KNBC prep coverage is that often the delay between the actual event and the telecast of that event is outrageous. Everyone realizes that most all prep events can't command prime-time live TV but showing, say, the CIF wrestling finals weeks after the event was held (as KNBC did last year) is a bit much.

It seems that KNBC should adopt a more timely airing of "Prep Sports World", and let's hope that this Saturday's telecast (being only one day late) is an indication of things to come. But don't bet on it.

Hacienda soccer?

With all the talk about the big soccer boom in this area, it's interesting to note that none of the Hacienda League schools field soccer teams.

The San Antonio League has been very successful on the soccer field, as has Chaffey High in the Inland League and even a small private school like Ontario Christian or Webb. Thus it seems odd that large public schools like Bonita, Walnut, San Dimas, Ontario or Alta Loma (The local Hacienda entries) have not made an attempt to create a soccer program.

The student interest, at least at one Hacienda school, seems to be there.

Karl Heim, a student at Bonita High, has led a drive to get a soccer squad started at his school. Heim has managed to get over 40 students to express interest in a Bearcat soccer team, and one suspects that at least as many students are interested at the other H.L. schools.

The notion of soccer teams might well be one for H.L. athletic directors and officials to seriously consider.

Soccer has shown to be a relatively inexpensive sport, and one which might well develop into as big a money maker at the gate for the schools as football and basketball are.

It was not a good weekend for San Dimas High football coach Bob Baiz. Baiz was attending the St. Paul-Servite game last Thursday when he was taken ill. However he had recovered enough by Friday to lead his Saints in a practice in preparation for their big game Saturday night against Royal Oak.

But on Saturday morning Baiz was again stricken at home and was rushed to Kaiser Hospital in Fontana. While the hospital was performing tests to determine the nature of Baiz' illness, the San Dimas mentor had to lay in a hospital bed Saturday night as his team lost a narrow 12-9 decision to Royal Oak.

The results of the tests showed that Baiz was suffering from a bleeding ulcer. The illness will keep the veteran skipper confined to Kaiser for a week, meaning Baiz will miss this Friday's San Dimas-Sierra Vista game as well.

systems were "go" for the delayed contest at Fenway Park.

Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, who called off Monday night's scheduled game because of a treacherous field, gave the green light for tonight with the optimistic assurance that "the field will be much better."

The weather was expected to be much better than it has been in recent days, too. Fenway Park, under siege by a long-winded storm since last Friday night, recuperated under the tender care of a "lawn doctor," groundskeeper Joe Mooney, and was expected to be healthy again.

Sunshine and temperatures in the 60s, the National Weather Service prediction, won't hurt Fenway, either.

"I'm edgy to play," said Boston right fielder Dwight Evans, reflecting the common feeling of ballplayers and just about everyone else.

They almost played Monday night—and would have except that Kuhn wasn't entirely happy with the conditions. He spent a long time on Fenway's outfield turf in conference with associates, including Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson and Darrell Johnson of Boston.

"The field is not suitable for a World Series game of such importance," Kuhn finally said.

Particularly bad was the right field section of Fenway Park, as Evans testified.

"It was awfully wet," the player pointed out. "Pop flies might fall in because fielders can't get to them. You might need a spoon to get the baseball out of the ground."

The white tarpulin on the infield was sprinkled liberally with puddles, souvenirs of the long "nor'easter" that belted Boston. Although Fenway Park's drainage is reputed to be among the best in baseball, the outfield was a carpet of water. Mooney's ground crew drove an aerator over the watery outfield grass in an attempt to dry it out. Apparently they weren't very successful.

"Right field is the trouble spot," Kuhn said. "It's much worse than left or center field."

Most everyone was on the scene to get Kuhn's announcement—even the Reds. En route back to their hotel from a workout at nearby Tufts University, the players watched anxiously from the stands while their manager tip-toed through the gloomy-looking field.

The rainout tied an undistinguished Series record. In 1962, the San Francisco Giants and New York Yankees also had a game postponed three times by rain. Ironically, it was also the sixth game.

For the second straight day, Anderson took his National League champions to a gymnasium on the Tufts campus.

"We haven't lost any time the last two days since we have been able to work out," Anderson said. "We got as much work in as possible."

The continued postponement didn't change Anderson's pitching plans. He stayed with Gary Nolan as his starter in Game No. 6 and Don Gullett for the seventh game, if necessary.

Nolan will face Luis Tiant, the ace of the Boston staff who owns the only two Red Sox victories in this series so far. The Reds, holding a 3-2 edge, can finish off Boston with a victory tonight and carry home their first world championship since 1918.

The Red Sox, many of them bothered by bad colds because of the weather, hoped to stave off elimination and prolong the Series until Wednesday.

"I'm ready," announced Tiant, one of those fighting a cold.

Evans, appearing at a news conference Monday, told reporters that he was taking medication for his illness but was fit enough to play a crucial World Series game.

"I've played with sickness before," Evans said. "It's really nothing new. You have to play sick if you're a baseball player. You do the best you can. You can't call in and say, 'I won't be in today. I'm sick.' That's what I get paid for—playing."

Along with Evans and Tiant, "almost all of the top performers" is complaining of colds. But apparently Tiant wasn't feeling too bad since he went to a Boston Bruins hockey game Sunday night. And the others were in pretty good shape, too, because many of them worked out under the stands at Fenway Park Monday.

"We want to play badly," said Evans, one of the top performers in the Series. "We think we can take this World Series, so we'd like to get it over with."

Johnson feels the Red Sox can at least stave off defeat one more day with the commanding presence of Tiant.

"All of us feel that Tiant is at his maximum with four days rest," the Boston manager noted. "Luis now has had four days' rest and we are looking for him to be at his best."

Cards pass Davis on to Padres

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The San Diego Padres, trying to strengthen their hitting, have obtained veteran outfielder Willie Davis from the St. Louis Cardinals for reserve outfielder Dick Sharon.

The 35-year-old Davis, a former star with the Los Angeles Dodgers, holds a lifetime batting average of .280 and has 382 career stolen bases. Sharon, formerly of the Detroit Tigers, is 25.

"Despite the age differences, we consider this a very good deal for us," said Padres' General Manager Peter Bavasi. "We're looking for speed and any hitter who can improve our offense. Willie Davis should be a very valuable addition to our team."

Davis split last season between the Cardinals and the American League Texas Rangers.

With the Rangers, he hit .249 with five home runs, had 17 runs batted in and stole three bases. With the Cards, he hit .291, drove in 50 runs and hit six homers. He also stole 10 bases.

Davis, a 16-year veteran, said he wasn't surprised by the deal and he was happy to be playing in Southern California again.

"Bavasi phoned me from Arizona a few days ago, so I knew a trade was in the works," he said from his Los Angeles home.

The Cards assigned Sharon to their Tulsa American Association farm club.

The move opened some room on the Redbirds for Hector Cruz, a hot hitting prospect for the Tulsa, said General Manager Bing Devine in St. Louis Monday.

Cruz was brought up to replace Davis during five days the swift outfielder missed in August. At Tulsa Cruz hit 29 home runs with 116 RBIs.

Davis missed the August games in an alimony dispute with his former wife and late that month said he would leave the game unless he signed a five-year million-dollar contract to solve his financial problems. "Davis didn't fit into our plans," said Devine, "because of our young players, his salary and the fact that he still is geared to play."

Sharon was chosen in the first round of baseball's 1968 free agent draft by the Pittsburgh Pirates. He played briefly in both 1973-74 for the American League Tigers, hitting .231 and .217.

ABA moves to join rival NBA

NEW YORK (AP) — American Basketball Association owners, in a move they said would bolster the sport's weakening financial status, moved to join the National Basketball Association after burying another of the economy's victims—the Baltimore Claws.

"There's no way professional basketball can survive if 25 of the 28 teams in both leagues lose substantial amounts of money every year," said John Y. Brown, president of the ABA. "We're trying to take some intelligent steps to force professional basketball into some posture of sound business and responsibility."

That theory was put into practice Monday, when owners of the seven other ABA clubs joined the New York Nets and Denver Rockets in requesting applications for membership in the NBA beginning in the 1976-77 season. New York and Denver had done so on Sept. 24.

"Merger is the wrong word," said an ABA spokesman. "We're forbidden from merging, legally, without consent of the NBA players association and the courts."

Indeed, the courts—of law, not basketball—appear to hold the key to the sport's future. Separate telegrams sent by each remaining ABA club to NBA Commissioner Larry O'Brien said, in part: "If the NBA has interest in considering an application, we would like the NBA to join with us in petitioning Judge (Robert L.) Carter for permission to process an application under such circumstances as he may deem appropriate and consistent with his prior orders."

Those orders include prohibition of any merger between leagues not approved by Judge Carter and the NBA Players Association, which is involved in antitrust action to prevent such a merger. While not calling it a merger attempt, New York Nets' Owner Roy Boe made clear his feelings on the matter.

"The key to the survival of basketball is to be one league," he said. "Anybody who understands what's happening in basketball realizes the sport is in a serious position and that we need consolidation to survive."

That point probably is clearest to personnel of the Baltimore Claws, who fade into ignominy without having played a regular season game. The club's remains—the players—will be redistributed through a dispersal draft.

"The guys feel it is part of our lives that has been swooped away," said veteran center Mel Daniels of the Claws. "We tried hard to keep it together by working real hard in practice, even when we weren't getting paid."

"Believe it or not, there was still a ray of hope today," said Lou Grasmick, one of the last-minute Baltimore investors. "We had some luck raising money over the weekend, and if we had been granted another 24 hours, I think we could have raised it. We were some $200,000 short."

That shortage was enough to prompt new ABA Commissioner Dave DeBusschere to drop the franchise. "He didn't want the league to have to step in and help the team like it did with Memphis last year," explained a spokesman.

"While we regret this turn of events, we owe it to the ABA fans and players currently on the Baltimore rosters to start our season with strong, financially sound teams," DeBusschere said in a prepared statement.

JUICE FLOWS

BUFFALO (AP) — Steady John Leypoldt missed and unsteady George Hunt didn't. As a result, the New York Giants upset the Buffalo Bills 17-14 in a National Football League game Monday night. The Bills were a two-touchdown favorite going into the nationally televised game.

Hunt, a four-year pro, booted a field goal from 37 yards with nine seconds left and the Bills suffered their first loss of the season after four victories.

It was the Giants' second triumph against three losses.

Buffalo's Leypoldt, who made good on his three field goal attempts in earlier games, blew a 19-yard effort with 3:16 remaining in the fourth period. The score was tied at 14-14 at the time.

Then, with 1:12 to go, Leypoldt attempted a 15-yarder. It was tipped by the Giants and the Bills were dead.

For Hunt, who went into the game with only one successful field goal in three tries and who missed two attempts against the Bills, his game-winner reminded him of his football days at the University of Tennessee.

"I kicked one with 13 seconds left against South Carolina that put us in the Sugar Bowl," Hunt said. "But this was great, coming on a Monday night and in the pros."

Buffalo shot into a 14-0 lead, getting its first touchdown on O.J. Simpson's one-yard sprint to his right.

Then, after Buffalo's second TD on a 13-yard pass from Joe Ferguson to J. D. Hill in the second period, the Giants began to roll. Their offensive line continually beat the Bills' defensive front four and veteran quarterback Craig Morton picked the Buffalo secondary apart. An eight-play sequence ended with Morton's 20-yard scoring pass to Ray Rhodes in the end zone.

The Giants continued to stymie the Bills and in the fourth period they knotted the game when Ron Johnson, who carried 13 times for 77 yards, scored on a 13-yard run.

Simpson, who went into the game with 697 yards rushing, carried 34 times for 126 yards, his lowest in any of five games this year.

"We kept stopping our own drives," Simpson said. "I don't think we let down. The first four times we had the ball every drive was stopped by us."

Citrus team is '5/8' best yet

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

It's still too early for John Strycula to say his undefeated football team is the best in Citrus College's history.

"We are five-eighths of the way there," Strycula said at Monday's weekly football luncheon at The Castaway Restaurant. "We've had some teams win eight in a row so I can tell you more if we accomplish that."

"I would say this year's team is comparable," the Citrus coach added. "If we can stay healthy, we have the potential to be as good."

The Owls won their fifth in a row by blanking Palomar, 34-0 to take a 2-0 record in the Mission Conference.

"I was especially happy with this win for two reasons," Strycula said.

"It's always good to win on the road and we have been handicapped by a lot of flu problems."

Strycula credits quarterback Herb Daniel for playing a big part in the team's success.

"Herb is going to be one of the finest quarterbacks we've had at Citrus," Strycula said. "and we were concerned about him before the season started. He has just been fantastic."

Citrus will risk its perfect record Saturday night when the Owls host San Diego City College.

"San Diego's press book says they have 15 guys with 4.5 or 4.6 speed," Strycula said. "Most press books aren't exact but I believe in this case it's true. San Diego will be a big test for us."

The College Player of the Week award went to defensive end Derrick Drisdell of Azusa Pacific while the JC honor goes to defensive lineman Marty Martinez of Chaffey.

Drisdell had five sacks and eight tackles in Azusa's 12-10 win over Redlands. Martinez had eight tackles and forced a fumble to help Chaffey beat Riverside, 17-13.

Foothill Beverage Company of Pomona presents the awards.

Quoting the coaches: ROLAND ORTMAYER, La Verne: "Cal Lutheran was too much for us and it has been a number of occasions. We weren't able to make a contest of it. Our offense moved the ball a bit. This week, we open conference play at Redlands. At La Verne, we're trying to get more into the conference spirit and are doing everything to point in that direction. But our step into league play is a big one against Redlands. We've enjoyed good luck against Redlands through the years. We're considering not playing Cal Lutheran in the future. If we decide not to, it would be one less loss a season."

MAL EATON, MSAC: "We seem to be in a situation where in every other game, we seem to sign a non-aggression pact. We just had one of those weeks. Our practices were poor and we just played poor football in the loss to Cerritos (31-13). I don't have the answer for it. Our concentration simply is not there. We have a bye this week and I'm not sure if it's good or bad but it can't hurt us. We feel we are still in the South Coast Conference race.

WALT AMBORD, Pomona-Pitzer: "When we were behind at San Diego 41-0 with eight minutes left in the first half, I thought it would be 100-0. At least I thought I would get new material for my book about losing football drills. I want to publicly thank USD Coach Dick Logan. He showed a lot of mercy which is something we didn't get when we were down here two years ago. Logan played everybody in sight. We play Whittier this week and it is a typical Whittier team. We will use our best 11 players on offense and defense so that means we'll be using nine both ways. We hope to at least make it a game."

VICTORY SIGNAL — Billy Collins of Houston, Tex. signals he has won gold medals for U.S.

in 400 meter relay in Pan Am games Monday. U.S. now has 59 gold medals.

Yanks break records

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The Star Spangled Banner was the seventh Pan American Games' theme song today with America's saucy young swimmers threatening to double Cuba's gold medal total and the crowds cheering Uncle Sam's tune.

Six swimming finals were on the agenda tonight and if Monday night's sparkling show was any indicator, the national anthem will be played until most anti-Americans in the crowds know it by heart.

There were hurrahs and cheers for the United States track and field forces as they bagged six out of a possible eight gold medals tonight. Hoots and jeers had haunted the team in the early going.

Record-shattering performances in the pole vault, javelin throw and from two relay teams wilted the field in Mexico City's 7,340-foot altitude.

The U.S. men's 400-meter relay team sizzled to a Games record 38.31 second clocking, and anchorman Bill Collins flashed a symbolic "No. 1" sign as he sped past Cuba's Jose Triana to the tape.

There was enthusiastic applause where there had been boos as the Americans finished with 19 gold medals out of their total bag of 39. It was short of the U.S. total of 24 gold medals in 1971 at the last Pan Am Games in Cali, Colombia.

American swimmers and divers won five out of six events Monday and Coach Ron Ballatore saw no reason why the trend shouldn't continue tonight in the men's 400-meter freestyle, 200-meter breaststroke, 200-meter backstroke and 200-meter butterfly and the women's 400-meter individual medley and 100-meter butterfly.

The United States went into tonight's events with a gold-silver-bronze total of 59-50-23. Cuba was second with 34-30-19 with Canada third at 14-20-24.

Three Pan Am records fell to Ballatore's team and it took a record-breaking performance by Canada's Lynn Chanard in the 100-meter breaststroke to keep the U.S. from sweeping all the gold off the boards.

"We plan to sweep every gold medal, and if we don't we'll come awfully close," said Ballatore, who hasn't missed his prediction by much.

Steve Furniss of Santa Ana, Calif., knocked more than two seconds off the record in the men's 400-meter individual medley with a clocking of 4:40.38 and Kim Peyton broke her own record with a time of 2:04.57 by more than five seconds in the women's 200 freestyle.

America's 400-meter men's freestyle relay team chipped in the other record.

The day began in a glitter of gold as Earl Bell, a junior from Arkansas State, vaulted 17-feet, 10½ inches. It bettered the old record by almost six inches.

Sherry Calvert, a physical education teacher from Los Alamitos, Calif., hurled the javelin 179-feet, 5½, beating by more than two feet the record of Cuban Tomas Nunez.

The women's 400-meter relay team anchored by Pamela Jiles of New Orleans also established a Games' mark of 42.90 seconds.

The American women's basketball team even won over some of the hot-blooded Latin fans with a pressure-proof 70-64 victory over the Cubans.

There was a band of Mexican spectators who cheered the victory which left the U.S. gals with a 4-0 record and sent Cuba tumbling to 4-1.

Basketball aficionados were eagerly awaiting

Wednesday night's battle between the U.S. and Cuban men's teams. The Americans are unbeaten while Cuba was upset by Puerto Rico. America downed Canada 84-73 in its toughest test Monday night to run its record to 6-0.

The Americans were also killing the Cubans with kindness, rushing over to shake hands with them after the basketball game.

At the track, Tony

Waldrop of Columbus, N.C., won the 1,500-meter race, then hugged a bronze medal-winning Cuban on the victory stand.

And America also was doing well in events most people never hear about, like the equestrian grand prix dressage. Hilda Guernsey of Woodland Hills, Calif., won a silver medal with 1,306 points and Dorothy Morkis of Raynham, Mass., took a bronze.

Sports briefs

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Former Chicago Bears quarterback Bobby Douglass may be a running back in his expected debut Sunday for the San Diego Chargers.

The Chargers, winless in five National Football League starts, will fly Saturday to Oakland for an American Conference game with the Raiders.

Douglass, who sat out his first two games in a Charger uniform, presumably would fill in for one of three running backs nursing injuries.

Don Woods was placed on injured reserves after undergoing surgery for torn knee ligaments suffered in Sunday's 12-10 loss to the Kansas City Chiefs.

A rib was broken by running back Ricky Young, and running back Tony Baker reinjured a foot while warming up Sunday. Young is listed as doubtful and Baker probable for the Oakland game.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Stanford free safety Gerald Wilson and California running back Chuck Muncie have been named Pacific-8 Conference players of the week.

Wilson, receiving the honor Tuesday for the second time this year, was named defensive player of the week following Stanford's 24-21 victory over Washington last weekend. Wilson, a senior, was credited with 11 tackles — 10 of them unassisted.

Stanford Coach Jack Christiansen described Wilson as "our most consistent player this year."

Muncie, receiving the weekly offensive honor for the second time this season and third time in his career, was cited for his performance in Cal's big 51-24 victory over Oregon State.

Playing just little more than half the game, the 220-pound senior ran for 149 yards, scored three touchdowns and passed 47 yards for another TD.

He ranks second among Pac-8 ball carriers this year with 794 yards and eight touchdowns.

SEATTLE (AP) — With Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn due to visit here after the rain-delayed World Series, another group interested in owning a major league franchise here has surfaced.

Comedian Danny Kaye and local resident Lester M. Smith, joint owners of several radio stations, including one in Seattle, say they are interested in a club at a "fair price."

Smith said a fair price is around $10 million.

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — A foot fractured by Moses Malone Sept. 25 has not healed satisfactorily and the second-year standout of the Utah Stars will undergo surgery Wednesday, a team spokesman says.

The spokesman said Malone will be out of action six to eight weeks.

The cast was taken off his foot last Friday, but team physician Dr. Ralph McDonald was not satisfied with the healing process.

The spokesman said the surgery would take the form of a bone graft on the fractured bone in Malone's right foot.

Coach Tom Nissalke said of Malone, "I feel as bad for him as I do the team. He had such lofty goals for himself and the team this season."

HILTON HEAD, S.C. — Australian Rod Laver scored a straight-set 6-4, 6-4 triumph over Wimbledon champion Arthur Ashe in the opening match of the $135,000 World Invitational Tennis Classic.

TEHRAN — American Tim Gullickson advanced to the second round of the $100,000 Aryamehr Cup Tennis Tournament with a 6-0, 6-0 upset of Zeljko Franulovic of Yugoslavia.

PERTH, Australia — Harold Solomon of the United States beat Russell Simpson of New Zealand 2-6, 6-2, 6-3 in a first-round match of the $46,000 Perth Indoor Tennis Tournament.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Guard Nate Archibald netted 30 points here Monday night to pace the Kansas City Kings to a 109-105 overtime victory over the Phoenix Suns in National Basketball Association action.

The two teams battled to a 97-all deadlock at the end of regulation play before the 6-foot-11 Archibald led a 12-point Kings overtime burst to pull out the win.

Forward Scott Wedman added 23 points for Kansas City, while guard Jimmy Walker hit 19.

Veteran guard Paul Westphal led the losing Suns with 17, assisted by forward Keith Erickson's 15 points.

N.L. best, says Morgan

BOSTON (AP) — Raise the topic of American League superiority and a spark of defiance dances in the eyes of Joe Morgan.

"Ask Bobby Murcer or Bobby Bonds. They'll tell you which league is superior," said the peppery Cincinnati second baseman as the Reds bid tonight to end the American League's three-year lock on the World Series.

Cincinnati, with a 3-2 game edge, stands on the brink of becoming the first National League team to win the world championship since Pittsburgh came from a 2-0 game deficit to stun Baltimore in 1971.

The American League has won four of the past five World Series, but Morgan rejects the contention that the National League's prestige is slipping.

"I don't think that other league is as good as ours. I figured we'd beat Boston in five games. And I don't care where we play—on turf or asphalt—we're the better team," said Morgan, leading contender for the NL's Most Valuable Player award.

He gives the Oakland A's their due. "They were an exceptional team, they were more like a National League team. Most teams in the American League don't run. Oakland did and won doing it. Basically the American League is a different game. We run over here and try to make things happen. Over there they wait for things to happen. If they don't hit, they say to hell with it," said Morgan, who hit .327 in 1975 and stole 67 bases in 77 attempts.

Morgan's feelings for the National League run deep. "I hope I always play in this league. It's a whole different game and everybody knows it," he said.

A major difference is in pitching philosophies, says Morgan. "American League pitchers use the breaking ball to set up their fast ball. Our league uses the fast ball to set up the breaking ball. I guess that's why I get more fast balls than anybody because pitchers know I don't hit bad balls," he said.

Morgan, whose bat has been held in check by Boston pitching, said the Reds are itchy to get down to business after three rain-forced cancellations of game six.

He worries that the layoff could have an adverse effect on Cincinnati.

"We've had more time to think about it. I'm not that confident right now. We're going to be playing on a wet field and that takes away some of our edge," said Morgan, who has .235 batting average with four hits in 17 at bats in the Series.

"But we've got more ways to beat you than anybody. This won't stop us," he said.

Roller skating is the popular sport of skating on wheeled skates. No one really knows who invented roller skates, or even when they were first used. But they were probably invented by ice skaters who wanted to skate when there was no ice. People were roller skating on the roads of Holland and Belgium about 200 years ago. Some early skates had several wheels in a line like the blade of an ice skate. Others had only two wheels. In 1863, a man named John L. Plympton of Boston invented the four-wheel skate, much like those we skate on today. These skates made roller skating widely popular. The first skates had wooden wheels which broke easily. The next development was the introduction of all-metal skates with ball bearings in the wheels to make them turn faster. This completed the skate as we know it today. Skating to music at indoor rinks is a year-round sport followed by many thousands of skating enthusiasts. Here's wonderful news! A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE INVITING BIDS
CASH CONTRACT NO. 75-4
MARCHANT PARK GRADING
NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the City Council of the City of San Dimas, County of Los Angeles, State of California, hereby invites sealed proposals or bids for the grading of Marchant Park, Cash Contract No. 75-4, all in accordance with the plans and specifications on file in the Office of the City Engineer of the City of San Dimas.

Sealed proposals or bids shall be delivered to the City Clerk of the City of San Dimas on or before 10:00 A.M. on the 24th day of October, 1975, at the Office of the City Clerk, City Hall, 245 East Bonita Avenue, San Dimas, California. The City Clerk will at said time, in open session publicly open, examine and declare said bids.

All proposals shall be accompanied by a check payable to the City of San Dimas, and certified by a responsible bank for an amount which shall not be less than ten (10%) percent of the aggregate of the proposal or by a bond for said amount and so payable, signed by the bidder and two sureties who shall justify before any officer competent to administer an oath, in double the said amount and over and above all statutory exemptions, or by a corporate Surety Bond to the satisfaction and approval of the City Council of the City of San Dimas, California.

The bid check, bond or Surety Bond of the successful bidder will be forfeited to said City in the event such successful bidder fails or refuses to enter into the required contract within five (5) days after the written notice that said contract has been awarded to him for work.

The successful bidder, simultaneously with the execution of the Contract Agreement, will be required to furnish a labor and materials bond in an amount equal to fifty per cent (50%) of the contract price and a faithful performance bond equal to one hundred percent (100%) of the contract price.

BIDDERS ARE HEREBY NOTIFIED that, pursuant to the Labor Code of the State of California, the City Council has ascertained and determined the general prevailing rate of per diem wages and the general prevailing rate for legal holiday and overtime work in the locality in which said work is to be performed for each craft or type of workmen needed to execute the contract for said work, which contract will be awarded to the successful bidder.

The City of San Dimas hereby notifies all bidders that it will affirmatively insure that in any contract entered into pursuant to this advertisement, minority business enterprises will be afforded full opportunity to submit bids in response to this invitation and will not be discriminated against on the grounds of race, color, sex or national origin in consideration for an award.

Copies of plans and specifications may be obtained at the Office of the City Engineer, City Hall, 245 East Bonita Avenue, San Dimas, California, upon request.

The City Council reserves the right to reject any and all bids received and to compare the relative merits of the respective bids and to choose that which in the opinion of said City Council will best serve the interests or needs of said city and to take all bids received under advisement for a period of not to exceed sixty (60) days, after the declaration thereof.

Each bidder in bidding shall state his California Contractor's License Number, as no bid will be accepted from a contractor who has not been licensed in accordance with the provisions of the laws of the State of California relating to licensing of Contractors.

This notice is hereby given and published by order of the City Council of the City of San Dimas, California and is dated this 8th day of October, 1975.

Grocer receives bomb threat after having boy, 6, arrested

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A grocer who turned a 6-year-old boy over to police for allegedly stealing a brownie says he has received angry phone calls and even a bomb threat from irate people who just didn't understand that he was trying to help the little boy.

"I just couldn't let him go back out in the dark, barefoot in this neighborhood," said Frank Haynes, owner of Clyde's Grocery Market, of the boy he had police pick up as an accused shoplifter.

"I've gotten 30 to 40 threatening calls ... and one guy even said there was a bomb in my store set to go off at 6 p.m.," Hayes said.

"Everybody's been calling me up, telling me what a bad man I am. I'm not a bad man. I'm a good man. I did not intend to hurt that kid."

Hayes said after he caught the boy taking a 15-cent brownie, the youngster told him his father did not live at home and his mother left him alone each night about 7, returning just in time to dress him for school.

"I've got three kids of my own. They're all under six. We love them. All kids are supposed to be taken care of. I just wanted to help this little 6-year-old boy," the grocer said. "I wanted somebody to talk to that child's mother."

He said when he telephoned the police dispatcher and asked what to do, the dispatcher said police would "take the boy home and give his mother a verbal reprimand. If it happened again, then they might do something stronger."

Police said the boy's mother was located and the child was returned to her. Officers said the boy's behavior was discussed with his mother, who was not identified.

Just to "set the record straight, I was trying to help that little boy," Hayes said.
